Morton Opposition Waning

Summerfield Not Interested In Top GOP Job

WASHINGTON (AP)—A move by party conservatives to head off the selection of Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky as Republican national chairman appeared to be collapsing Tuesday night.

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield removed himself from consideration for the post and this left the conservatives without a candidate for the job being vacated by Meade Alcorn.

There was some speculation that those who have been critical of Morton's inability to give full time to the chairmanship might yet advance the name of former Sen. John Bricker of Ohio. Bricker was defeated for re-election last November.

Summerfield Says "No"

Summerfield, who had been urged to seek the chairmanship, said in a statement:

"It has been reported in the press that a group of leading Republicans have suggested that I be named chairman of the Republican National Committee.

"I am grateful for this expression of confidence in me. However, I am not a candidate for this position, nor do I seek such an assignment. It would be impossible for me to consider this assignment in view of my pressing duties as postmaster general."

Summerfield held the chairmanship for six months in 1952.

Ohio State Chairman Ray Bliss, who heads a subcommittee to nominate Alcorn's successor, was reported convinced that Morton will get the post.

Election This Weekend

Rumored opposition to Morton failed to develop at a meeting of the GOP Congressional Campaign Committee, headed by Rep. Richard M. Simpson of Pennsylvania. Simpson and his Senate opposite number, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, have objected to Morton on grounds Morton could devote only part time to national committee duties while serving in the Senate.

But after the campaign committee meeting, Simpson told newsmen: "I know of no candidate at all other than Mr. Morton."

The national committee will elect a new chairman this weekend.

Courts Warned By Gov. Faubus

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus said Tuesday there will be "trouble and plenty of it" if the courts prohibit use of state funds to finance attendance at segregated schools of students opposed to integration.

"But if our laws to provide for education of these students are permitted to stand, there is no question but what a dual system of schools would work," Faubus said.

Until recently state funds were being allotted to other schools, including one private institution, as inducement for pupils displaced by shutdown of the Little Rock public high schools.

The practice has been temporarily enjoined by a federal court order.

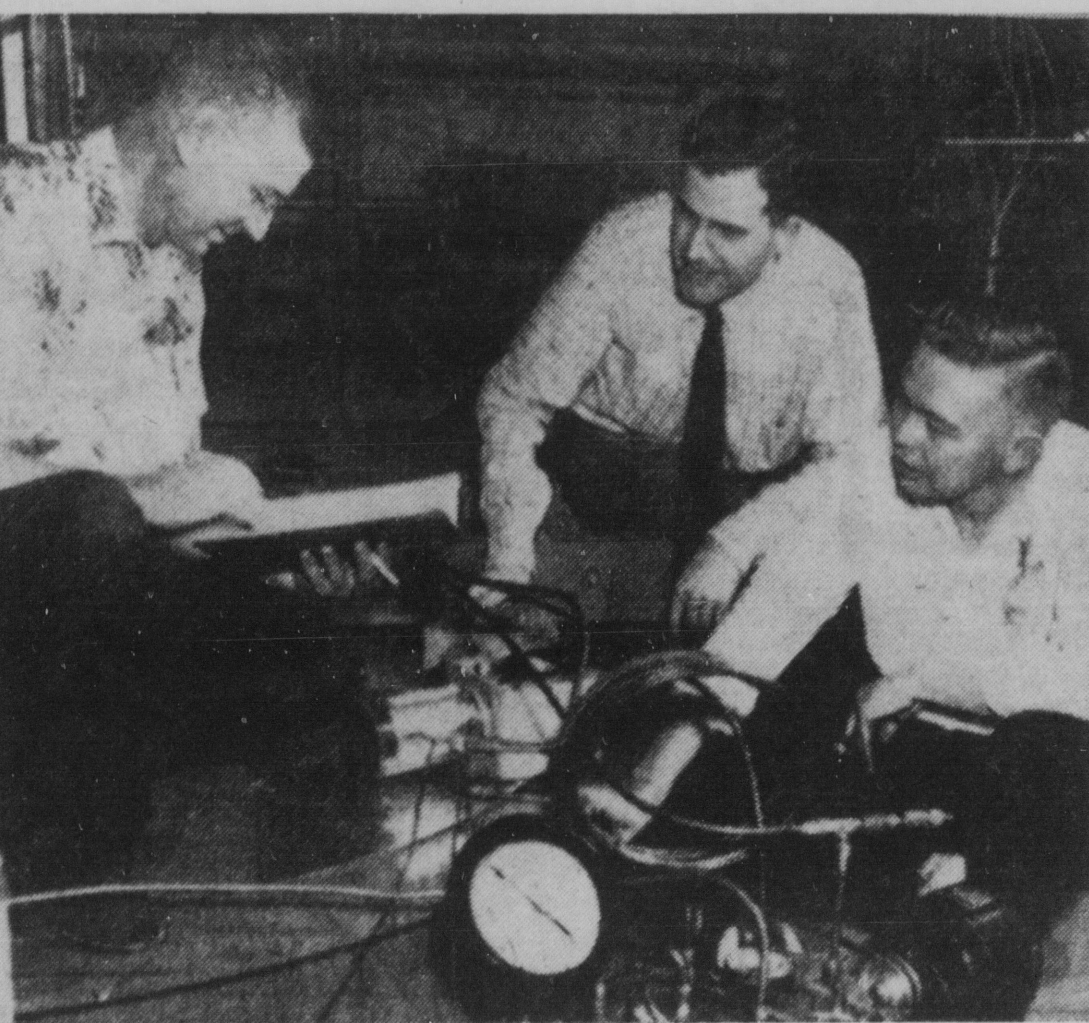

At Faubus' direction, the Arkansas Legislature recently passed a law and proposed a similar state constitutional amendment which would permit payment of educational funds directly to students under a local option system.

Challenges of the state law under which Faubus closed the high schools against integration are pending in the Arkansas Supreme Court and in federal court.

The federal suit also involves the companion law under which school funds were diverted.

CED Says Tax Hike Preferable To 1960 Deficit

WASHINGTON (AP)—An influential business organization declared Tuesday a tax increase would be preferable to an unbalanced budget in the government year starting July 1.

Championing the anti-inflation stand taken by President Eisenhower, the Committee for Economic Development said in its annual appraisal of federal budget policy: "Any increase in expenditures above the President's budget should be matched by additional taxes."

Actually a tax increase should not be necessary, said the CED, a privately supported research organization of corporation heads and educators. It held that farm, housing, veterans and some other outlays could and should be cut while foreign economic aid is enlarged.

But if the net outcome of congressional actions this session creates a prospective deficit for fiscal 1960, "taxes should be raised before Congress adjourns," CED said.

The committee said that if more federal revenue is needed in the next few years, it probably will have to come mostly from higher taxes on low and middle income consumers or from a general sales tax.

The report was approved—with several dissents — by CED's 50-member committee headed by T. V. Houser, director of Sears, Roebuck & Co. The committee membership includes such business figures as Thomas B. McCabe, president of Scott Paper Co.; Philip D. Reed, finance chairman of General Electric Co.; H. J. Heinz II, chairman of H. J. Heinz Co.; and Gardner Cowles, president of the Des Moines Register & Tribune and Cowles Magazines.

Device Turns Atom Power Directly Into Electricity

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP)—An atomic device no bigger than a couple, produced enough power to can of frozen fruit juice kept an electric light bulb for 12 hours, hours before it was dismantled the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory announced Tuesday. A scientific predicted its development would pave the way for interplanetary travel.

The device is part of a process which converts atomic power into electricity without the use of turbines and generators, the laboratory said.

A spokesman said the process was several hundred times more powerful than any used before in converting atomic power into electricity with the use of thermocouples.

Robert W. Pidd, the consultant energy Commission technician who on the project, said the development of the device would pave the way for interplanetary travel and could power satellites.

Oklahoma Ends 51 Years As 'Dry' State

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—Oklahoma, which doesn't collect a tax on lihomans Tuesday ended 51 years of prohibition in the seventh re-peat election in state history. The accompanying county option proposal was doomed early in the evening, and the pre-repeal margin, at first nip-and-tuck, widened as the big city vote came in.

With 2,479 of 3,234 precincts reported, repeal led by a margin of 276,220 to 227,277.

The county option vote, with 2,014 precincts reported, showed 328,043 no, 161,072 yes. Oklahoma and Tulsa counties, the state's most populous, gave margins of two to one and three to one, respectively, in early returns.

Oklahoma is the only state which doesn't collect a tax on lihomans Tuesday ended 51 years of prohibition in the seventh re-peat election in state history. The accompanying county option proposal was doomed early in the evening, and the pre-repeal margin, at first nip-and-tuck, widened as the big city vote came in.

Truman Hopes GOP Picks Nixon

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman said Tuesday he hopes the Republicans nominate Vice President Richard M. Nixon for president next year. "He'll be the easiest to lick," the Democrats' elder statesman laughingly told a luncheon crowd of 1,100.

Truman again refused to indicate who he will back as the Democratic nominee in 1960, but he did say: "The man who will be nominated is one who will not divide the country by race, religion or foreign policy."

"We'll need leadership and we must be sure that the affairs of the world are in the hands of an executive who knows what he's doing and where he's going."

Mayor Daley Rolling To Victory In Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI)—Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, unchallenged boss of one of the nation's strongest Democratic machines, appeared Tuesday night to have rolled up a landslide vote for election to a second term.

Less than two hours after the polls had closed, and with the votes still being counted, Daley's majority over Republican rival Timothy Sheehan mounted from 2 to 1 to 3 to 1.

Sheehan, a former congressman who had begged Chicagoans to oust "the Democratic machine and its dictator mayor," was expected to concede shortly. His office promised a "statement" at any moment.

Daley scheduled a 10 p.m. e.s.t. victory celebration at Democratic headquarters.

The first precinct reporting, the 48th of the 22nd Ward, gave Daley 182 votes to Sheehan's 21. That set the pattern. About a million Chicagoans — about 60 per cent of those eligible — cast ballots in a lackadaisical election in which the result was accepted as a foregone conclusion almost from the start.

British Income Taxes Slashed

LONDON (AP)—The Macmillan government slashed almost a tenth off income taxes Tuesday, bringing the rate to the lowest since prewar days.

The move, together with cuts in the taxes on beer and consumer goods, is likely to increase the Conservative party's chances of winning the next election—probably in October.

Derrick Heathcoat Amory, Macmillan's chancellor of exchequer, presented to Parliament an annual budget calculated to distribute about $1,120,000,000 worth of relief to the most heavily taxed citizens of the non-Communist world. He said the government is out of the woods, financially speaking, but that the nation must make its industries more competitive in world markets.

"This is the springtime of opportunity, not a harvest of the prosperity," he observed.

The standard rate of tax becomes $1.09 on each $2.80 of taxable income.

The basic reduction amounts to 8.32 per cent. Expressed another way, Britons now will have their incomes taxed 38 3/4 per cent instead of 42 1/2 per cent. During World War II the rate got as high as 50 per cent.

The new schedule starts June 7.

Employment Gain, Jobless Drop Hailed

But Union Leaders Minimize Changes On Eve Of Big Rally

WASHINGTON (AP)—Employment rose over one million in March while unemployment declined almost 400,000 in a substantial improvement in the nation's job picture.

The changes were about double the normally expected springtime improvements. They reflected a sizable dent in the idle-worker problem that has been the only major bad spot in the nation's recession recovery.

These are the exact new government job figures, announced Tuesday:

Employment — 63,828,000, up 1,106,000 from February. This is a 1,517,000 increase over March last year.

Joblessness Down 387,000

Unemployment—4,362,000, down 387,000 from February. This is 772,000 less than in March 1958.

The figures, also showing a rise in the available work force, followed rosy predictions by President Eisenhower and his Cabinet members that the new data would be gratifying to all Americans.

The March unemployment improvement was the best since 1950, the employment improvement the best since 1951.

Union leaders minimized the changes, saying they were chiefly seasonal and failed to provide any cause for celebration.

"Ballyhoo" Meany Says

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said that despite what he termed Eisenhower administration "ballyhoo" the idle total still is the highest for any month of March since World War II, except in last year's recession.

Meany said the AFL-CIO intends to make it clear at a rally here Wednesday, of over 5,000 union leaders and idle workers, that "unemployment is a problem of people, rather than a mere statistic." The conference is intended to draw attention to the plight of the jobless.

Cigarette Smoke Chemical Seen Shortening Life

BOSTON (AP)—A chemical in cigarette smoke perhaps makes smokers age faster and die sooner, a scientist suggested Tuesday.

This chemical, acetaldehyde, makes animal tendons stiffen up in a process like tanning of shoe leather, said Dr. F. Marrott Sinex, Boston University biochemist.

Age in humans also brings loss of elasticity and stiffening of some protein tissues.

Dr. Sinex found changes in tendons from kangaroo tails and the necks of cattle when he exposed them to acetaldehyde from cigarette smoke.

By inference, at least, it could stiffen and "tan" vital human tissues, including lungs, arteries, and other body materials, Dr. Sinex said.

The research "suggests, but certainly does not prove, that acetaldehyde in cigarette smoke may be a factor in decreased longevity observed among smokers," he said.

Polluted air also contains this same chemical.

In New York, the tobacco industry research committee declined comment.

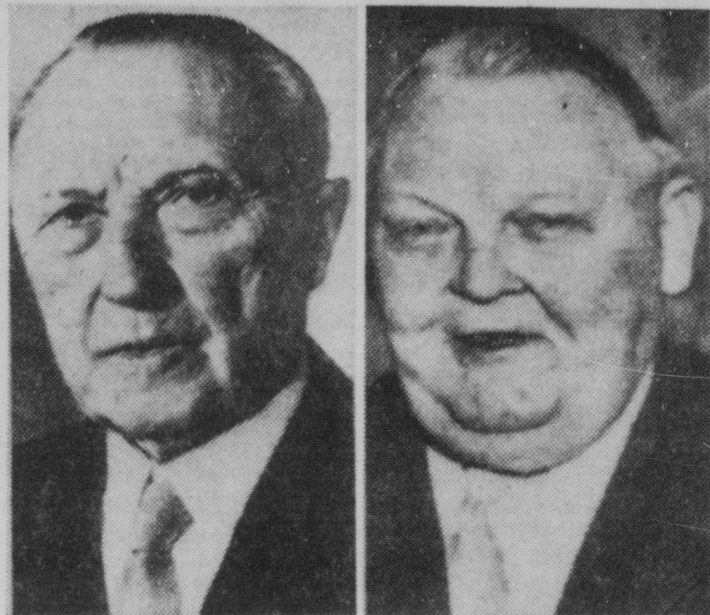

Dr. Sinex described the studies to a news conference, amplifying a formal report to the American Chemical Society's national meeting.

Eisenhower Begins Augusta Vacation

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower came south Tuesday for a golfing vacation—and swiftly got a large and pleasant dose of the warm sunshine prescribed by his doctor.

Smiling and waving, the President stepped from his private plane at 12:45 p.m. into glorious 80-degree weather.

The Eisenhowers drove directly from the airport to their cottage. Present indications are the President may stay in Augusta for about two weeks, with a brief interruption of the visit to keep two Washington engagements next week. Monday evening he will speak in the capital at a dinner meeting of Republican women. The next morning he is scheduled to take part in ceremonies dedicating a bell tower to the late GOP Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

Bonn Shift Upcoming

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, left, yesterday agreed to run for the presidency of West Germany, a decision that means his retirement from active politics. Ludwig Erhard, right, economics minister, is considered the most likely choice of the Christian Democrats to succeed to the chancellorship. Post of president in West Germany is largely a ceremonial one. Term of President Theodore Heuss expires in July. He is ineligible to run again. (AP Photofax)

Mrs. Nicholas Sobs As Farewell Letter To Slain Lover Read

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—The calm exterior of divorcee Minnie B. (Connie) Nicholas was shattered Tuesday as she listened to a farewell letter she wrote to the businessman lover she is accused of murdering.

A few moments before she had broken down while identifying the pearl handled French pistol used in the shooting.

Burying her face in a handkerchief, the 44-year-old defendant sobbed on the witness stand as defense attorney Charles W. Symmes read the two-page typewritten note to an all-husband jury.

Admitted in evidence over state objections, the unmailed letter was written to wealthy drug executive Forrest Teel nine days before he was shot to death in his white Cadillac last July 31.

"I know now that we can never go back and mean to one another the things that we have for the past 15 years," the letter said.

Mrs. Nicholas wrote that she had a premonition that Teel, a married man with an adopted son, was destined to have an affair with Laura Mowrer, a beautiful secretary at the Eli Lilly & Co. drug firm where he was an executive vice president.

"I still love you," the letter said, "and even though you are willing to come back I would never have that peace of mind and serenity that I have had for the past years. . . There might be another Laura and I just couldn't take it another time."

Defense attorneys said they will put Mrs. Nicholas back on the stand when the trial resumes Wednesday. They estimated it will take about an hour and a half to complete her story of the killing and her attempted suicide.

Mrs. Nicholas, who had kept up a smiling front since the trial began March 16, broke down for the first time when her lawyers asked her how she started dating Teel.

Regaining her composure in a couple of minutes, she told the jury that the drug executive met her by accident in downtown Indianapolis two years after he first started asking her for dates. They went into a hotel and had a drink, she said.

After that 1943 meeting, the divorcee testified, she and Teel met at least twice a week, "sometimes in my apartment, other times in hotels."

Asked if Teel ever gave her any money, the divorcee said he gave her about $2,600 in April 1957 to pay a year's apartment rent and finish payments on her 1955 model car.

Reliefer Plays Market, Runs $4,000 To $21,000

NEW YORK (AP)—A 75-year-old relief chiseler pleaded guilty Tuesday to petty larceny. He used his welfare pittance to play the stock market and ran a $4,000 investment into $21,000.

The canny investor, Harry Schweitzer, accumulated his original nest egg over many years mainly from the $1.10 a day he had left in welfare funds after paying his rent.

The bottom dropped out of the market for him because it is against the law to accept welfare while possessing resources, such as stocks. Schweitzer has liquidated his brokerage account and repaid the city. He still has about $4,000 left and his lawyer, Jack M. Prelman, said: "Presumably, if he runs out of the $4,000, he'll go back to the stock market."

But Schweitzer felt otherwise. He worked until ill health forced his retirement. Then in 1938 he went on relief. He has been receiving $71.10 a month.

Bonn Leader To Step Down In September

Decision To Seek Post Of President Shocks Diplomats

BONN, Germany (AP)—Konrad Adenauer's decision Tuesday to surrender his West German chancellorship for the less important presidency stunned German politicians and world diplomats alike.

Ludwig Erhard, 62-year-old economics minister and architect of Germany's postwar business recovery, was expected to take over next September the leadership laid down by the 83-year-old Adenauer.

The choice of a chancellor will be up to Adenauer's ruling Christian Democratic party if Adenauer is elected president, and there was little doubt of Adenauer's election.

The chancellor is the main executive in Germany. Under the Bonn constitution he "determines the policy and bears the responsibility for it." The presidency is largely ceremonial, having powers about equivalent to those of Queen Elizabeth II in Britain.

The decision of Adenauer, crusty and uncompromisingly leader of West Germany through its entire 10-year history, means he will be giving up active politics.

But Adenauer will still be at the helm when crucial East-West meetings take place this spring and summer.

Heuss Must Retire

It seems a foregone conclusion that he will be chosen president in the July 1 election by Parliament. His Socialist opponent is a popular writer-scholar, Carlo Schmid. The incumbent president, Theodor Heuss, is retiring under a two-term rule.

In Washington, it was believed that Adenauer's less active role might have profound effects on policies of the Western powers, facing critical decisions in their relations with the Soviet Union.

Adenauer stood like a rock on the policies of alliance with the West, nonrecognition of East Germany, no compromise with the Soviet Union unless Moscow compromised.

British officials greeted the prospective change with satisfaction though with no public comment. In recent weeks there has been a rift in the personal relationship between Adenauer and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, who believes the West must take a more flexible attitude in negotiations with Moscow.

Adenauer To Vacation

Adenauer kept strict silence on his step. He will go to Italy Wednesday for a long vacation.

Eugen Gerstenmaier, president of the lower house of Parliament, made the announcement after a session of the special commission of 60 Christian Democrats, set up to nominate a candidate for president.

What moved Adenauer to accept his party's call was a subject of intense debate.

Some said his followers were ricked by what they call the inflexibility of his foreign policy and wanted to kick him upstairs.

Others suggested Adenauer intends to revise the role of the presidency and make it a more powerful voice in German affairs. At any rate, Adenauer wants to preserve the presidency for his Christian Democrats. Possibly he feared Schmid might beat a less important opponent.

Skate Returns From Arctic

GROTON, Conn. (AP)—The American nuclear submarine Skate, the first ship ever to surface at the North Pole, returned home Tuesday after an historic scientific and sentimental journey. "We learned," said the proud skipper, Cmdr. James F. Calvert, "that the arctic can be used by the U.S. Navy in winter as well as summer."

The mission of the Skate's second trip to the North Pole—she sailed under it last August—was to compare ice conditions in the arctic in winter with those of summer.

The answers provided, said the 33-year-old Calvert, "the key to military control of the Arctic Ocean."

The submarine, which left her home berth here March 4, remained under ice for 12 days last month and logged 3,000 miles. She surfaced 10 times, once right at the pole.

Mrs. Nicholas Sobs As Farewell Letter To Slain Lover Read

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—The calm exterior of divorcee Minnie B. (Connie) Nicholas was shattered Tuesday as she wrote to the businessman lover she is accused of murdering.

A few moments before she had broken down while identifying the pearl-handled French pistol used in the shooting.

Burying her face in a handkerchief, the 44-year-old defendant sobbed on the witness stand as defense attorney Charles W. Symmes read the two-page typewritten note to an all-husband jury.

Admitted in evidence over state objections, the unmailed letter was written to wealthy drug executive Forrest Teel nine days before he was shot to death in his white Cadillac last July 31. "I know now that we can never go back and mean to one another the things that we have for the past 15 years," the letter said.

Mrs. Nicholas wrote that she had a premonition that Teel, a married man with an adopted son, was destined to have an affair with Laura Mowrer, a beautiful secretary at the Eli Lilly & Co. drug firm where he was an executive vice president.

"I still love you," the letter said, "and even though you are willing to come back I would never have that peace of mind and serenity that I have had for the past years. . . . There might be another Laura and I just couldn't take it another time."

Defense attorneys said they will put Mrs. Nicholas back on the stand when the trial resumes Wednesday. They estimated it will take about an hour and a half to complete her story of the killing and her attempted suicide.

Mrs. Nicholas, who had kept up a smiling front since the trial began March 16, broke down for the first time when her lawyers asked her how she started dating Teel. Regaining her composure in a couple of minutes, she told the jury that the drug executive met her by accident in downtown Indianapolis two years after he first started asking her for dates. They went into a hotel and had a drink, she said.

After that 1943 meeting, the divorcee testified, she and Teel met at least twice a week, "sometimes in my apartment, other times in hotels."

Asked if Teel ever gave her any money, the divorcee said he gave her about $2,800 in April 1957 to pay a $4,000 apartment rent and finish payments on her 1955 model car.

"I'm not interested any more," he said of the money.

He did have some advice for investors, however. "I think we are in a period of tremendous inflation which will force the prices of stock and real estate up," he said.

Schweitzer is short, slightly built and nearly bald. He went to court wearing gold-framed eyeglasses and a gray suit and topcoat. A former Warsaw school teacher, he came here from Poland in 1923.

Working as a hospital orderly, Schweitzer managed to put aside enough money to plunge into the booming market of the 1920s. But the 1929 crash wiped him out to the tune of $30,000.

He worked until ill health forced his retirement. Then in 1938 he went on relief. He has been receiving $71.10 a month.

But Schweitzer felt otherwise.

Bonn Leader To Step Down In September

Decision To Seek Post Of President Shocks Diplomats

BONN, Germany (AP)—Konrad Adenauer's decision Tuesday to surrender his West German chancellorship for the less important presidency stunned German politicians and world diplomats alike.

Ludwig Erhard, 62-year-old economics minister and architect of Germany's postwar business recovery, was expected to take over next September the leadership laid down by the 83-year-old Adenauer.

The choice of a chancellor will be up to Adenauer's ruling Christian Democratic party if Adenauer is elected president, and there was little doubt of Adenauer's election.

The chancellor is the main executive in Germany. Under the Bonn constitution he "determines the policy and bears the responsibility for it." The presidency is largely ceremonial, having powers about equivalent to those of Queen Elizabeth II in Britain.

The decision of Adenauer, crusty and uncompromisingly leader of West Germany through its entire 10-year history, means he will be giving up active politics.

But Adenauer will still be at the helm when crucial East-West meetings take place this spring and summer.

Heuss Must Retire

It seems a foregone conclusion that he will be chosen president in the July 1 election by Parliament. His Socialist opponent is a popular writer-scholar, Carlo Schmid. The incumbent president, Theodor Heuss, is retiring under a two-term rule.

In Washington, it was believed that Adenauer's less active role might have profound effects on policies of the Western powers, facing critical decisions in their relations with the Soviet Union.

Adenauer stood like a rock on the policies of alliance with the West, nonrecognition of East Germany, no compromise with the Soviet Union unless Moscow compromised.

British officials greeted the prospective change with satisfaction though with no public comment. In recent weeks there has been a rift in the personal relationship between Adenauer and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, who believes the West must take a more flexible attitude in negotiations with Moscow.

Adenauer kept strict silence on his step. He will go to Italy Wednesday for a long vacation.

Eugen Gerstenmaier, president of the lower house of Parliament, made the announcement after a session of the special commission of 60 Christian Democrats, set up to nominate a candidate for president.

What moved Adenauer to accept his party's call was a subject of intense debate.

Some said his followers were irked by what they call the inflexibility of his foreign policy and wanted to kick him upstairs.

Others suggested Adenauer intends to revise the role of the presidency and make it a more powerful voice in German affairs. At any rate, Adenauer wants to preserve the presidency for his Christian Democrats. Possibly he feared Schmid might beat a less important opponent.

Skate Returns From Arctic

GROTON, Conn. (AP)—The American nuclear submarine Skate, the first ship ever to surface at the North Pole, returned home Tuesday after an historic scientific and sentimental journey.

"We learned," said the proud skipper, Cmdr. James F. Calvert, "that the Arctic can be used by the U.S. Navy in winter as well as summer."

The mission of the Skate's second trip to the North Pole—she sailed under it last August—was to compare ice conditions in the Arctic in winter with those of summer.

The answers provide, said the 38-year-old Calvert, "the key to military control of the Arctic Ocean."

Prober Says Hoffa Shared In Jukebox Tug-Of-War Payoff

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate investigator said Tuesday Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa shared a $6,000 payoff for helping one side in a tug-of-war between rival jukebox operators in Detroit.

This charge was made by counsel Robert F. Kennedy of the Senate Labor-Management Committee at the opening session of hearings on alleged mobster infiltration of the jukebox industry in Detroit. Hoffa's home town.

One witness testified that firms he believed to be backed by the underworld had taken over about one-fourth of Detroit's 4,000 jukebox locations — generally the more profitable ones.

There also was testimony by a former jukebox union member that Hoffa once tried without success to have him pay $5,000 to a prosecutor to fix a false extortion charge.

Kennedy said the $6,000 was paid in the late 1940s as salaries to the wives of Hoffa and Bert Brennan, one of Hoffa's top aides in Detroit.

The counsel described this as a payoff from one union, allegedly backed by an association of Detroit jukebox operators, for Hofffa's rejection of applications for a Teamsters charter sought by a rival group of jukebox men.

When Hoffa was questioned by the committee two years ago, Kennedy said, he described the $6,000 as overpayment of a loan of either $2,000 or $2,500 to Eugene (Jimmy) James, then head of Local 23814 of the Music Maintenance Workers Union (AFL), a unit no longer in existence.

Kennedy made his charge after Victor De Schryver, a former Detroit jukebox operator, affirmed testimony he gave a Detroit grand jury in 1946. That testimony was to the effect that James had described the payments to Mrs. Hoffa and Mrs. Brennan as needed to meet obligations James owed their husbands.

Ex-Rep. Burdick, 80, Reported Located

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Usher L. Burdick said Tuesday night she received word that her former congressman husband, missing for three days, was traveling across Minnesota en route to North Dakota.

Mrs. Burdick, 31, said D. W. Wahlin of St. Cloud, Minn., had telephoned her to say that he had eaten lunch with the 80-year-old former Republican lawmaker at St. Cloud, Minn.

Motorboat Ordeal

TOULTON, France (AP) — Louis Curlier, 42, a mechanic, heard a lot of the explosions he hadn't expected on a motorboat tune-up cruise. The engine conked out. The wind pushed the boat smack into a French naval target area forbidden to navigation. Practice shells rained down around him for two days. Finally spotted by the cruiser De Grasse, Curlier fainted when he was rescued.

Prisoner May Write Tawes, Judge Rules

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — The Patuxent Institution can restrict a prisoner's choice of reading matter but he has the right to correspond with Gov. Tawes, a judge ruled Tuesday.

Berl B. Franklin Jr., serving a six-year term from Baltimore County, told Judge Michael J. Manley Patuxent authorities forbade him and others sending written appeals to the governor.

"We were informed we were not to write the governor and we were directed not to attempt it," the prisoner said.

Judge Manley cited a recent Court of Appeals ruling that prisoners have complete freedom to write to the courts, their counsel or to executive authorities including the governor.

The judge denied Franklin's request for a writ but suggested he "renew the application" if authorities interfered again. Franklin had wanted to subscribe to The Daily Record, a legal publication, so the judge gave him a copy of Maryland's new Post-Conviction Procedure Act.

"By the way," Judge Manley added, "I didn't see your name in the list of those who broke out Sunday night."

"No sir," Franklin replied. "I had to get under a table to keep from being run over."

Veterans Win "Oscars," Reversing Recent Trend

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — It was just like the night they invented champagne as Hollywood feted the new royalty of the movie world—Susan Hayward and David Niven.

The grand ballroom of the Beverly Hilton was packed Monday night with the great names of filmdom, and the celebration of the 31st Academy Awards seemed genuine. There was no doubt of the popularity of the Oscar choices—Miss Hayward for the shock-charged "I Want To Live" and Niven for the character study, "Separate Tables."

This year the academy reversed its trend of rewarding the bright new pennies of movies — Joanne Woodward, Yul Brynner, Audrey Hepburn, Ernest Borgnine, Grace Kelly, etc.

Instead, the top prizes went to veteran stars. Miss Hayward, a four-time loser, has been a steady performer since coming here as a Scarlet O'Hara hopeful. Niven has been around for 25 years.

The academy also gave its supporting awards to durables — the English star Wendy Hiller of "Separate Tables" and balladeer Burl Ives of "The Big Country."

It was a great night for "Gigi," the delectable French pastry that claimed nine Oscars for its achievements. They included best picture for producer Arthur Freed.

'Raisin In Sun' Voted Top Broadway Play

NEW YORK (AP) — "A Raisin in the Sun," a play written, acted and directed by Negroes, was voted Tuesday the best American play on Broadway during the 1958-59 season by the New York Drama Critics Circle.

The play, which stars Sidney Poitier and was written by Lorraine Hansberry, received six votes.

"JB," the Archibald Macleish verse drama based on Biblical Job's search for faith, and Tennessee Williams' "Sweet Bird of Youth" tied for second place with five votes each.

Four Still At Large

JESSUPS, Md. (AP) — Four fugitives were still at large Tuesday night among the 34 who broke out of the Patuxent Institution for Defective Delinquents.

State Police concentrated their search in the area of the men's homes in Baltimore, Harford County, the Eastern Shore and Southern Maryland.

All of those who escaped Sunday night face charges, which will be placed in Howard County.

Two Blazes Claim Lives Of Three Marylanders

(By The Associated Press)

A 50-year-old Baltimore County man died when flames swept through his one - story cottage Tuesday. His frantic wife watched helplessly from the outside.

Another house fire in Salisbury took the lives of a mother and her daughter.

In the Baltimore County blaze, firemen found the body of Edward Tatum sprawled on the living-room floor of his Essex home. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

His wife, 45-year-old Mrs. Bertha Tatum, received cuts on both hands and arms when she tried to break a window to get into the blazing house where her husband was trapped. Police restrained her.

Only about 12 hours earlier, George Cysyk, 94, died in a fire which destroyed his beach cottage near Essex.

In the Salisbury blaze, the victims were Mrs. Hilda Lee Stein, 27, and her mother, Mrs. Frances Marshall, 57. Their bodies were found near a window inside the two-story frame house.

Firemen said the fire probably was caused by smoking in bed. There were no others in the house at the time.

In a third fire, a St. Mary's County waterman and his family returned home Monday night to find the place had been destroyed by flames.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gass and their daughter, Mary Ann, 16, were visiting friends when a neighbor saw flames leaping from their two-story home and notified firemen.

The rulers of Prussia, who later became emperors (kaisers) of Germany, were originally known as the margraves of Brandenburg.

Heirs, Trustees Of Orphanage Clash In Court

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The trustees of a Frederick orphanage clashed in the Court of Appeals Tuesday with the heirs of the man whose will established the home.

At stake in the case is the $45,000 property of the Loats Female Orphan Asylum.

The orphanage was set up in 1883 under the will of John Loats. It was closed in 1956 because of a decrease in applications.

Trustees of the home said it would be uneconomical to continue operations and sought to sell the property and use the money for support of orphans through regular welfare agencies.

They started negotiations with the Frederick County Historical Society for the sale of the property at $45,000, but Loats' heirs claimed the trustees lacked marketable title.

The trustees filed suit in Circuit Court to clear title, but Judge John T. Tucker ruled that closing of the orphanage had reverted the property to the heirs and descendants of Loats. The trustees appealed.

Descendants contesting the sale included Florence L. Essom of Westminster and some 15 others.

They claimed Loats' will provided for a "lasting and permanent" institution and the property reverted to his heirs when the trustees abandoned the express intent of the will.

The trustees argued that they are trying their best to concur with Loats' wishes "in keeping with modern times." They said modern thought prefers placing needy children in foster homes, rather than asylums.

Attorneys for the home also attacked the validity of Loats' will and said the property belonged to the orphanage by "adverse possession."

They said the trustees had merely closed the home pending a court decision and had never refused to carry out their duties as found by the court.

The high court took the arguments under advisement.

Woodmen, Spare That Cherry Tree

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Residents here are protesting plans to chop down a 21-year-old Japanese cherry tree to provide more parking space for the Bethesda post office.

The parking lot is being constructed to accommodate mailmen's motor scooters.

What has some residents particularly annoyed is their contention that removal of the tree, now in full blossom, would provide space for only two scooters.

The Bethesda Chamber of Commerce planted the tree during Washington's 1938 Cherry Blossom Festival.

Bar Suggests Three For Circuit Judge

SNOW HILL, Md. (AP) — The Worcester County Bar Assn. has sent Gov. Taves the names of three attorneys as candidates for appointment as a circuit judge.

Recommended were Godfrey Child of Pocomoke City, Daniel Prettyman of Berlin and William Price of Snow Hill.

Prettyman is now state's attorney of Worcester County. Child is a former state's attorney.

The appointee will become a member of the bench of the First Judicial Circuit of Maryland, which includes Dorchester, Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester counties.

Robber Who Wept Because Loot On One Job So Small Sentenced

BALTIMORE (AP) — A bank holdup, Whitfield contended throughout that he used only a toy gun.

Whitfield signed statements admitting robbing the Clifton Savings Bank of $615 last Nov. 21, a branch of the Fidelity Baltimore National Bank of $1,886 last Dec. 3, and a Provident Savings Bank branch of $2,784 last March 6.

Of the Clifton Savings job, he entered guilty pleas to three bank holdups. Whitfield contended that he used only a toy gun.

Whitfield signed statements admitting robbing the Clifton Savings Bank of $615 last Nov. 21, a branch of the Fidelity Baltimore National Bank of $1,886 last Dec. 3, and a Provident Savings Bank branch of $2,784 last March 6.

Of the Clifton Savings job, he entered guilty pleas to three bank said he "got $615 and a bucket of tears," explaining he cried because he didn't get enough money: "I figured on $7,000 or $8,000."

Of the Fidelity Baltimore robbery, he said he would have stopped to get more but "didn't know how well I was doing."

The last holdup, he said, was "the hardest job of the bunch."

Whitfield was picked up during an investigation of a missing receipt book from an automobile parking lot. He volunteered he was the holdup man during questioning about the receipt book.

The elaborate decorations on the armor worn by knights of the Middle Ages grew out of necessity for identifying the men behind their all-enveloping garb.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

MODERN Concrete

"Concrete streets certainly added to the safety of our neighborhood!"

Peace-of-mind goes with concrete pavement! Its grainy surface assures safe, sure stops—gives you dependable skid resistance—even in wet weather. It stays smooth and level, too. There are no potholes to cause dangerous swerves. You're always in control of your car.

And because clean-colored concrete reflects light four times more than any dark surface, you can see and be seen far better at night—a real comfort, driving or walking.

Yet with all this built-in safety, modern concrete offers moderate first-cost and continued low maintenance. Reasons enough to make it the preferred pavement for residential streets everywhere.

Get together with your neighbors!

If your street needs paving, make your preference for concrete known. Concrete is the only pavement that can be accurately engineered to carry the expected traffic loads on your street and lasts 50 years and more.

Two Blazes Claim Lives Of Three Marylanders

(By The Associated Press)

A 50-year-old Baltimore County man died when flames swept through his one-story cottage Tuesday. His frantic wife watched helplessly from the outside.

Another house fire in Salisbury took the lives of a mother and daughter.

In the Baltimore County blaze, firemen found the body of Edward Tatum sprawled on the living-room floor of his Essex home. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

His wife, 45-year-old Mrs. Bertha Tatum, received cuts on both hands and arms when she tried to break a window to get into the blazing house where her husband was trapped. Police restrained her.

Only about 12 hours earlier, George Cysyk, 94, died in a fire which destroyed his beach cottage near Essex.

In the Salisbury blaze, the vic-

Heirs, Trustees Of Orphanage Clash In Court

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The trustees of a Frederick orphanage clashed in the Court of Appeals Tuesday with the heirs of the man whose will established the home.

At stake in the case is the $45,000 property of the Loats Female Orphan Asylum.

The orphanage was set up in 1883 under the will of John Loats. It was closed in 1956 because of a decrease in applications.

Trustees of the home said it would be uneconomical to continue operations and sought to sell the property and use the money for support of orphans through regular welfare agencies.

They started negotiations with the Frederick County Historical Society for the sale of the property at $45,000, but Loats' heirs claimed the trustees lacked marketable title.

The trustees filed suit in Circuit Court to clear title, but Judge John T. Tucker ruled that closing of the orphanage had reverted the property to the heirs and descendants of Loats. The trustees appealed.

Descendants contesting the sale included Florence L. Essom of Westminster and some 15 others.

They claimed Loats' will provided for a "lasting and permanent" institution and the property reverted to his heirs when the trustees abandoned the express intent of the will.

The trustees argued that they are trying their best to concur with Loats' wishes "in keeping with modern times." They said modern thought prefers placing needy children in foster homes, rather than asylums.

Attorneys for the home also attacked the validity of Loats' will and said the property belonged to the orphanage by "adverse possession."

They said the trustees had merely closed the home pending a court decision and had never refused to carry out their duties as found by the court.

The high court took the arguments under advisement.

Woodmen, Spare That Cherry Tree

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Residents here are protesting plans to chop down a 21-year-old Japanese cherry tree to provide more parking space for the Bethesda post office.

The parking lot is being constructed to accommodate mailmen's motor scooters.

What has some residents particularly annoyed is their contention that removal of the tree, now in full blossom, would provide space for only two scooters.

The Bethesda Chamber of Commerce planted the tree during Washington's 1938 Cherry Blossom Festival.

Robber Who Wept Because Loot On One Job So Small Sentenced

BALTIMORE (AP) — A bank holdup, Whitfield contended throughout that he used only a toy "gun" because the loot on one job was so small was sentenced to 10 years in prison Tuesday.

Criminal Court Judge Joseph A. Child handed down the sentence to James Fletcher Whitfield, 33, who entered guilty pleas to three bank said he "got $615 and a bucket of tears," explaining he cried because he didn't get enough money: "I figured on $7,000 or $8,000."

Of the Fidelity Baltimore robbery, he said he would have stopped to get more but "didn't know how well I was doing."

The last holdup, he said, was "the hardest job of the bunch."

Whitfield was picked up during an investigation of a missing receipt book from an automobile parking lot. He volunteered he was the holdup man during questioning about the receipt book.

The elaborate decorations on the armor worn by knights of the Middle Ages grew out of necessity for identifying the men behind their all-enveloping garb.

Ruling In Adoption Case Is Appealed

SALISBURY (AP) — A Silver Spring, Md. couple has appealed a Circuit Court decision handed down last week which granted a Salisbury couple the right to adopt a 22-months-old baby.

Lloyd Crump, an electronics specialist from Silver Spring, said he planned to carry the case to the Maryland Court of Appeals.

After a three-day closed hearing last week, the court awarded the child to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Montgomery, a utility company employee of Salisbury.

Prior to the child being placed by welfare authorities in the Montgomery home, it was with the Crumps for 18 months.

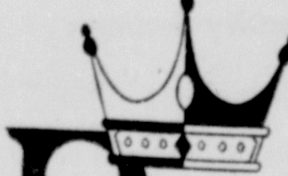

Both families had filed adoption papers for the infant.

Police Seek Escapee From Reformatory

BALTIMORE (AP) — Police searched Tuesday for one of two inmates who escaped from the State Reformatory for Males near Hagerstown Sunday.

Lewis Wheeler, 24, remained at large despite a 24-hour watch at his wife's Baltimore home. Police learned that Wheeler allegedly had threatened his wife.

The other escapee, 23-year-old Lawrence S. Napier, Jr., was captured in a southwest Baltimore house Monday.

Today's Understanding Might Have Averted U.S.-Japan War

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Could the leaders of the United States and Japan have avoided war in 1941 if they had understood fundamental pressures in the lives of the two nations as well as they do today?

President Eisenhower made an appeal Saturday for the development of men with such understanding generally. As an example of the type of understanding needed, he cited the economic relationship between Japan and Southeast Asia.

First, he described the need of South Viet Nam for economic development. He said such development, enabling the new country to stabilize the lives of its own people as well as its defense against the Communists to the north, as important to the national security of the United States.

Then he said that a healthy Japan also is vital from this standpoint and cited Viet Nam's possession of raw materials which could be used in promoting Japan's need for sale of manufactured goods.

He tied it all to the general welfare of the free world.

Twenty years ago Japan had the same idea when it sought to establish what it called a Southeast Asia Co-Prosperity Sphere. The trouble was that Japan's leaders of the time, militarists, saw only one way of accomplishment.

The United States and other countries with vested interests in the area, such as Britain and France, instead of suggesting an endless chain of economic arrangements, saw only one way of preventing Japanese military expansion. They applied economic boycott instead of economic cooperation.

Japan, having acquired Manchuria, Korea, and other Far Eastern possessions over previous years when the United States was unable to awaken the European powers to the need of resistance, moved into what was then French Indochina.

When Tokyo showed signs of extending this movement into all Southeast Asia, the Western countries, led by the United States, got their backs up. Japan, hoping Germany and Italy would keep the world preoccupied in Europe, joined the Axis.

War came between nations which had formerly cooperated.

The Japanese jingoists had taken advantage of a fundamental economic situation, just as Adolf Hitler had taken advantage of a Germany bereft of its economic place in the sun by the Treaty of Versailles.

Now the wheel has made full turn, and the United States is advocating that Southeast Asia be made, with economic help from the West, a good customer for Japan as well as the rest of the world.

In Europe, in America, in the Commonwealth which used to be called British, the idea of establishing mutual economic cooperation instead of promoting as many economic monopolies as possible has been spreading.

Congress Mustered 1st Quorum 170 Years Ago

By ARTHUR EDSON
WASHINGTON (AP) — This probably is the most anniversary-conscious town in the world. Scarcely a day passes that we aren't remembering somebody's birthday, the founding of some college, the happy fact that this is New York Egg Month. ("The laying hen," Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R) of Rochester, N.H., has told the Senate, "has become an efficient faculty.")

Yet here we are, on what should be one of the most memorable days, and all we get is silence, double dipped.

For 170 years ago Tuesday Congress finally mustered its first quorum, and settled down for an eventful, delightful history.

Congress isn't in session — its Easter recess lasts until Wednesday—but even if it were here, the day probably would go unnoticed. We celebrate March 4, 1789, as the birth of Congress, even though there's not much reason for it.

Only eight of 26 senators and but 13 of 65 representatives even bothered to show up. It took five weeks of dreary waiting before enough statesman could be rounded up for a quorum.

Curiously, Congress had detractors before it could so much as whip up a filibuster.

Old Sam Adams dryly observed: "Few men are contended with less power than they have a right to exercise. The ambition of the human heart grasps at more."

James Madison, who was to be one of the Congress' finest members, took a dim view of his colleagues.

Few congressmen, he said, could be counted on to do their share "in the drudgery of business."

Well, Congress met, and soon was hot at it... disputes over tariffs... jealousies between sections... threats to pull out of the Union.

The French minister looked over this strange, new government and sent home a report that sounds as timely now as it did 170 years ago.

"One of the great vices in the exercise of power by Congress," he said, "comes from the local spirit disclosed by the majority of the members and which they must follow if they would conserve their popularity in the district which appointed them."

Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen (R) of Pekin, Ill., has been dredging the history of that first Congress. He's impressed with how business has increased.

Only 268 bills were introduced then. The last Congress had 20,706. The first Congress passed 118 laws; the 85th figured we needed 1,720 new ones.

George Washington and his helpers sent only 72 communications to Congress. Eisenhower & Company sent 2,268.

Incidentally, Adams presided over the early Senate — and reached this conclusion: "I am wearied to death of the life I lead. The business of Congress is tedious beyond expression... business is drawn and spun

Specialized Workers Take Part In Cancer Check

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor
EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo. (UPI)—More than 70,000 specialized workers, including cooks, are being checked over to see if their jobs make them particularly susceptible to lung cancer.

In addition to cooks, the other workers are steam-fitters and all others who work with asbestos, welders, painters, lead, zinc and copper miners, workers in the engine rooms of ships, and operators of overhead conveyers of molten metals.

The science of epidemiology has a good basis for the suspicion that they are, and the present check-over is designed to confirm the suspicion. It was revealed to science writers attending a seminar on cancer research sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

Dr. Lester Breslow, epidemiologist of the California State Department of Health, said he had questioned more than 70,000 workers in those fields by mail about their health status, especially in ten metals conveyors five and one; steam-fitters 10 and 1; paint-tabulating the answers statistically.

Significance Explained
The study is scientifically significant because whereas epidemiology believes it has proved that cigarette smoking is a major cause of lung cancer, cigarette smoking is not enough to account for the marked increase in the incidence of that disease over the past 40-odd years.

This caused scientific investigators to seek out occupational hazards which might account for "the substantial minority" of lung cancer cases caused by something else," Breslow continued. So lung cancer patients in 13 California hospitals were tabulated by life-long occupations. These were compared to the occupations of an equal number of patients hospitalized for diseases other than cancer.

Among the lung cancer cases were 14 welders, but only two welders were among the controls. The other proportions were: cooks 35 and 21; molten metals conveyors five and one; steam-fitters 10 and 1; painters 22 and 12; lead zinc and copper miners nine and three; marine engine room workers 12 and 6.

Emphasize Agreement
Breslow and other epidemiologists on the panel of experts which briefed the science writers emphasized their unanimous agreement, that cigarette smoking was a prime cause of lung cancer, but, in their opinion, certain occupational hazards could have a "booster" effect in smokers and affect non-smokers.

They also emphasized that only a relatively small number of the workers in these occupations would be affected as, they added, is the case among cigarette smokers.

No Street Lights
HUNTINGFIELD, England (UPI)—The parish council Tuesday refused to appropriate funds for public street lights for this town of 255 population. The council said the lights were not needed because townspeople rarely venture out after sundown.

George Newman Elected Liberty Trust Director

George B. Newman has been elected to the board of directors of The Liberty Trust Company, according to Charles Piper, president.

Newman is president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and joined that company in 1954. Prior to that time, his business experience covered almost 30 years in the petroleum and rubber industries.

Since coming to Cumberland, the Newmans have participated in many community activities. He is a member of the Masons, Rotary Club and is a golf playing member of the Cumberland Country Club. He is a director and member of the executive committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, member of the board of governors of Memorial Hospital and a director of the County United Fund.

Mr. and Mrs. Newman reside at 646 Washington Street. Their daughter, Karil, is a senior and an honor student at Duke University.

Area Bills Signed By Gov. Tawes

A number of Allegany and Garrett county bills were signed by Gov. J. Millard Tawes as the 1959 session of the General Assembly neared its close.

Others were enacted by one of the two chambers and sent to Gov. Tawes for his action.

The legislative action during the closing hours follows:

The Governor signed:

House Bill 100 sponsored by the Garrett delegation, to raise the salary of the clerk of the Garrett County Board of Commissioners to $4,000 a year.

House Bill 22, sponsored by the Garrett and Howard county delegations, to permit women to serve on juries in those counties.

House Bill 456, by the Allegany and Garrett delegations, that would authorize the Allegany and Garrett Circuit Courts to set a schedule of fees charged by the court stenographer.

House Bill 515, sponsored by the Garrett delegation, that would authorize the Garrett county commissioners to accumulate a surplus or reserve fund of up to $100,000 and use it for current expenses.

Senate Bill 396, sponsored by Sen. Bernard J. Gonder, that allows Garrett County to create sanitary districts.

The Senate enacted:

House Bill 538, by Del. Thomas F. Conlon Jr., and Del. Elbert E. Buckel, that requires the Director of the Bureau of Mines to stop further removal from strip-mined areas under certain conditions and increase the bond required for the mining of such areas.

Delegates Fail To Suspend Rules On Bonus Bill

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The House of Delegates Saturday failed to suspend rules and place a veterans bonus bill on passage vote the same day it received semi-final approval. The House adjourned three minutes later.

Sixty-two delegates voted for the suspension of rules, 20 shy of the required number. Eleven voted against, 48 abstained and two others were not recorded.

Among those voting on the key issue were (R-Republicans; otherwise, Democrats):

For: Frederick — Collins, Houck, Virts, Garrett — Bray (R), Buckel, Savage, Washington — Cohill, Coss, Geiger, Huyett, McElwee, Mason.

Against: Frederick—Mathias (R), Smelser.

Not Voting: Allegany—Conlon, Walsh, Frederick—Utterback.

Court Probates Three Wills

Wills of three persons who died last month have been admitted to probate in Allegany County Orphans Court.

One was the last testament of Joseph Milton Nealis, who was a 91-year-old resident of 226 Elder Street at the time of his death March 13. A son, Harry Edward Nealis, qualified as executor under a $100 bond.

This will dated September 2, 1953, provided that Mr. Nealis' property should be converted to cash and divided four ways. His two sons, John William Nealis and Harry Edward Nealis, and daughter, Mrs. Margaret Regina Borghman, were bequeathed 25 per cent of his estate each. The other one-fourth will be shared by four grandchildren, Gertrude Mae White, Norman Joseph White, Thomas Kenneth White and Warren Elmo Earl White.

Also probated was the will of Mrs. Viola May Fogtman, who was 64 and lived at 314 Pulaski Street when she died March 16. She left her entire estate to her husband, George A. Fogtman, who qualified as executor under a $200 bond. This will was dated March 23, 1956.

The will of Mrs. Bertie Willison Howe, who was 82 when she died March 10, also was probated yesterday. Miss Helen Hardinger, a niece by marriage, qualified as executrix of the estate under a $100 bond. Personal property was left to Miss Hardinger, Mrs. Hazel Bryant and Mrs. Ida Richards. All of the rest of the estate was bequeathed to Miss Hardinger.

Report Made By Rec Department

The city Recreation Department offered 36 activities in March and 1,699 participated for a total of 86 hours of scheduled programming.

C. Eugene Mason, rec director, submitted the report to the Mayor and Council Monday. In addition to basketball, badminton and volleyball, the department also offered Senior Citizen meetings, Bridge lessons, Bridge Club meetings, Coin Club sessions, a sub-deb fashion course and Easter play day. There were 15 babysitter lists distributed, movie projectors, screens and public address systems loaned.

Staff members attended nine meetings with various groups including the Middle Atlantic Recreation Conference.

At the time of the Civil war, New York City had a population of more than a million and Philadelphia had 300 thousand.

The will was dated April 30, 1954.

County Notified Of SRC Hearing

A public hearing will be held Friday, April 17, at 2 p. m. at the Union Hall in Westernport on the proposed modernization of State Route 36 from Church Street in that community to a point near Phoenix Hill at the town limits.

The State Roads Commission is planning to improve 1.56 miles of the roadway and property owners who will be affected have petitioned for the public hearing.

The notice of the meeting was given to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday as the county has some road intersections and a bridge which also are affected by the new work.

Harry Skelly, county roads supervisor, told the commissioners that the new highway will eliminate the necessity for the Brophytown Bridge across Georges Creek. He said that this will be to the benefit of the county as it will remove an item of cost for repairs of the bridge.

Westernport Man Given Jail Term

Francis Densmore, of Westernport, yesterday was found guilty of non-support of his wife and child and was sentenced to six months of the House of Correction by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris in Circuit Court.

Densmore had appealed a sentence imposed in Juvenile Court by Magistrate Fred Anderson.

George Newman Elected Liberty Trust Director

George B. Newman has been elected to the board of directors of The Liberty Trust Company, according to Charles Piper, president.

Newman is president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and joined that company in 1954. Prior to that time, his business experience covered almost 30 years in the petroleum and rubber industries.

Since coming to Cumberland, the Newmans have participated in many community activities. He is a member of the Masons, Rotary Club and is a golf playing member of the Cumberland Country Club. He is a director and member of the executive committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, member of the board of governors of Memorial Hospital and a director of the County United Fund.

Mr. and Mrs. Newman reside at 646 Washington Street. Their daughter, Karil, is a senior and an honor student at Duke University.

GEORGE B. NEWMAN

Court Probates Three Wills

Wills of three persons who died last month have been admitted to probate in Allegany County Orphans Court.

One was the last testament of Joseph Milton Nealis, who was a 91-year-old resident of 226 Elder Street at the time of his death March 13. A son, Harry Edward Nealis, qualified as executor under a $100 bond.

This will dated September 2, 1953, provided that Mr. Nealis' property should be converted to cash and divided four ways. His two sons, John William Nealis and Harry Edward Nealis, and daughter, Mrs. Margaret Regina Borghman, were bequeathed 25 per cent of his estate each. The other one-fourth will be shared by four grandchildren, Gertrude Mae White, Norman Joseph White, Thomas Kenneth White and Warren Elmo Earl White.

Also probated was the will of Mrs. Viola May Fogtman, who was 64 and lived at 314 Pulaski Street when she died March 16. She left her entire estate to her husband, George A. Fogtman, who qualified as executor under a $200 bond. This will was dated March 23, 1956.

The will of Mrs. Bertie Willison Howe, who was 82 when she died March 10, also was probated yesterday. Miss Helen Hardinger, a niece by marriage, qualified as executrix of the estate under a $100 bond. Personal property was left to Miss Hardinger, Mrs. Hazel Bryant and Mrs. Ida Richards. All of the rest of the estate was bequeathed to Miss Hardinger.

Report Made By Rec Department

The city Recreation Department offered 36 activities in March and 1,699 participated for a total of 86 hours of scheduled programming.

C. Eugene Mason, rec director, submitted the report to the Mayor and Council Monday. In addition to basketball, badminton and volleyball, the department also offered Senior Citizen meetings, Bridge lessons, Bridge Club meetings, Coin Club sessions, a sub-deb fashion course and Easter play day. There were 15 babysitter lists distributed, movie projectors, screens and public address systems loaned.

Staff members attended nine meetings with various groups including the Middle Atlantic Recreation Conference.

At the time of the Civil war, New York City had a population of more than a million and Philadelphia had 500 thousand.

The will was dated April 30, 1954.

Students Plan Poster Contest

Students of Catholic Girls Central, St. Mary's, and Ursuline Academy have been invited to compete in a poster contest in connection with the two-act comedy "No Time For Sergeants" which will be presented by LaSalle High School on April 24 and 25.

The contest which opened last Friday and closes this Friday, will be judged according to originality, neatness and format. Prizes are $8, $5, and $2. Brother Celestine, FSC, a co-director of the play, said the posters may be any size and must include the following in some way: "No Time For Sergeants," "LaSalle High School," and "April 24, 25."

No name or any identification is to be put on the poster and a number will be given when each poster is submitted.

The olive tree is unusually long-lived; some still productive trees are five to six hundred years old.

County Notified Of SRC Hearing

A public hearing will be held Friday, April 17, at 2 p. m. at the Union Hall in Westernport on the proposed modernization of State Route 36 from Church Street in that community to a point near Phoenix Hill at the town limits.

The State Roads Commission is planning to improve 1.56 miles of the roadway and property owners who will be affected have petitioned for the public hearing.

The notice of the meeting was given to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday as the county has some road intersections and a bridge which also are affected by the new work.

Harry Skelly, county roads supervisor, told the commissioners that the new highway will eliminate the necessity for the Brophytown Bridge across Georges Creek. He said that this will be to the benefit of the county as it will remove an item of cost for repairs of the bridge.

Westernport Man Given Jail Term

Francis Densmore, of Westernport, yesterday was found guilty of non-support of his wife and child and was sentenced to six months of the House of Correction by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris in Circuit Court.

Densmore had appealed a sentence imposed in Juvenile Court by Magistrate Fred Anderson.

Area Bills Signed By Gov. Tawes

A number of Allegany and Garrett county bills were signed by Gov. J. Millard Tawes as the 1959 session of the General Assembly neared its close.

Others were enacted by one of the two chambers and sent to Gov. Tawes for his action.

The legislative action during the closing hours follows:

The Governor signed: House Bill 100 sponsored by the Garrett delegation, to raise the salary of the clerk to the Garrett County Board of Commissioners to $4,000 a year.

House Bill 22, sponsored by the Garrett and Howard county delegations, to permit women to serve on juries in those counties.

House Bill 456, by the Allegany and Garrett delegations, that would authorize the Allegany and Garrett Circuit Courts to set a schedule of fees charged by the court stenographer.

House Bill 515, sponsored by the Garrett delegation, that would authorize the Garrett county commissioners to accumulate a surplus or reserve fund of up to $100,000 and use it for current expenses.

Senate Bill 396, sponsored by Sen. Bernard I. Gonder, that allows Garrett County to create sanitary districts.

The Senate enacted: House Bill 538, by Del. Thomas F. Conlon Jr. and Del. Elbert E. Buckel, that requires the Director of the Bureau of Mines to stop further removal from strip-mined areas under certain conditions and increase the bond required for the mining of such areas.

Delegates Fail To Suspend Rules On Bonus Bill

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The House of Delegates Saturday failed to suspend rules and place a veterans bonus bill on passage vote the same day it received semi-final approval. The House adjourned three minutes later.

Sixty-two delegates voted for the suspension of rules, 20 shy of the required number. Eleven voted against, 48 abstained and two others were not recorded.

Among those voting on the key issue were (R-Republicans, otherwise, Democrats):

For: Frederick — Collins, Houck, Virts.

Garrett — Bray (R), Buckel, Savage.

Washington — Cohill, Coss, Geiger, Huyett, McElwee, Mason.

Against: Frederick—Mathias (R), Smelser.

Not Voting: Allegany—Conlon, Walsh.

Frederick—Utterback.

Associated Women Plan Events, Queen Contest

Plans for a more active association were discussed at the dinner meeting of the Allegany and Garrett County officers and directors of the Associated Women of the Farm Bureau, which was held at Happy Hills Farms, Route 40, Mrs. John D. Young, Westminister, state president, conducted the meeting and spoke on responsibilities.

Tentative plans were outlined to organize groups to meet with various organizations to acquaint the city people with the difficulties the farmers are facing. A more active part in community affairs also was discussed, as well as knowing what to raise and what not to raise for a better market. Good nutrition also was discussed.

The annual Farm Queen contest and talent find was discussed. It will be at the annual farmer's picnic in July.

Noah E. Ketauer, Middletown, vice president of the Maryland Farm Bureau and president of the Frederick Farm Bureau, spoke on issues pertaining to farming, which were before the legislature. Carol Leatherman, Braddock Heights, state field representative, spoke on the young people's association. He also made tape recordings pertaining to farmers' views.

Attending were Mrs. Orval Glottely, Accident, district director, who was in charge of arrangements; Mrs. Leslie Guard, Addison, president of the Garrett County group; Mrs. Foster Yost, Mrs. Fred Benz, Accident; Mrs. Allen Paugh, Deer Park; Mrs. John Beachy, Swanton; Mrs. Ross Crowe, Mrs. Paul Welsh, Oakland; Mrs. Morris E. Beachy, Mrs. Kenneth Buckel, Grantsville; Mrs. Roy Shryock, president of the Allegany County group; Mrs. Robert Appel, Mrs. Floyd Buser, Mrs. Edgar Matthews, Oldtown; Mrs. Philip Brode, Mrs. Vernon Loar, Mrs. Charles Harvey, Frostburg; Mrs. Joseph Pollack, Mrs. Theodore Stegmaier, Cumberland; and Mrs. C. J. White, Rawlings.

Auxiliary 1125 To Plan Trip

Auxiliary 1125 to World War I Barracks will formulate plans for a trip to VA Hospital, Martinsburg, April 19, at the meeting tonight, at 8 o'clock in the VFW home. Mrs. Chloe Reynolds will preside.

New officers of the barracks will be entertained at a social hour, concluding the business session.

Raymond Reynolds is convalescing at his home, 101 Park Street, after being a patient in the VA hospital, Martinsburg.

Receives Honorary Membership

Ross F. Shaw, Oldtown, a member of the Cresap Society, has been officially notified by Mrs. Florence T. Lewis, Lakewood, Ohio, national president, that he will be given an honorary membership in the Cresap Society in June. The presentation will be at the annual meeting to be held in Waco, Texas.

The award is being made in recognition of Mr. Shaw's work in the national society which he helped to organize in 1916 in Columbus, Ohio.

This is the second time an honorary membership in the society has been offered to him. About three years ago, the late F. E. Powell, as a member of the advisory board, offered an honorary membership to Mr. Shaw. Mr. Shaw was instrumental in having the monument erected at the Oldtown school in 1949, honoring Thomas Cresap, founder of Oldtown in 1740.

Club 514 To Drape Charter

Navy Mothers Club 514 will drape the charter in memory of Mrs. Mary Sprow at the regular meeting Friday at the American Legion Home. All officers are asked to wear white.

Mrs. Josephine Huberts, state commander, and Miss Amelia Coward, state first vice commander, both of Baltimore, will be guests at the meeting and at a pot luck supper preceding it. The supper will be at 6 o'clock. The nominating slate is to be elected at the business session, which will be at 7:30.

Dr. Hadidian To Address Nurses

The Allegany-Garrett Licensed Practical Nurses Association will have Dr. Calvin Y. Hadidian as guest speaker at the meeting tomorrow evening at the home of Miss Marian J. Donahue, Knob Road. Dr. Hadidian will discuss, "Surgery in diseases of the lung."

John G. Burke will preside at the business session at 8. He asks all licensed practical nurses to attend.

Middle East Economy To Be Presented In Talk

A banquet and program only will be sponsored by the Frostburg-Georges Creek Branch AAUW, International Relations group, and the International Relations Club of Frostburg State Teachers College, April 18.

For several years a community banquet featuring a speaker on an international topic, has been presented by the AAUW International Relations Study Group or the International Relations Club of the college.

Group 281 Appoints Chairmen

Auxiliary 281, United Commercial Travelers, appointed chairmen at the meeting Saturday evening at the Girl Scout house. Mrs. Eleanor Snyder, senior counselor, presided.

Mrs. Maude McKenzie, youth chairman, reported on the auxiliary's needy family and that shoes will be purchased for one of the children. Mrs. McKenzie was appointed to serve as youth chairman again this year. Other chairmen are Mrs. Mabel Chaney, aid and sympathy; Mrs. Hazel Soethe and Mrs. Sara Connor, civic work.

The obligation of the auxiliary was given by Mrs. Betty Johnson, a past senior counselor, to Mrs. Mary Rohman, Mrs. Frances Lafferty, Mrs. Emma Brant, and Mrs. Harriet Boore.

Delegates to the grand session in Roanoke, Va., in May will be selected at the May 2 meeting, at which time also the new "UCT" will be selected. A party will be held after the business session.

Hostesses Saturday were Mrs. Betty Johnson and Mrs. Josephine Pfeiffer. After the business session, William Barger showed a movie on Civil Defense and a discussion period followed.

Social Chart

The Flintstone Homemakers Club will have a demonstration by 4-H girls at the meeting Friday at the Flintstone Methodist Church. Blue Cross dues will be collected. Mrs. Harry Bender and Mrs. H. K. Chaney will be hostesses.

North Cumberland Homemakers will meet at the Potomac Farms dairy at 1:30 tomorrow for a tour of the plant. DeMolay Mothers will meet at 8 tonight at the Temple.

Goren Will Speak May 4

The Women's Club of Hagerstown is sponsoring an illustrated lecture by Charles Goren, bridge specialist, writer and teacher, May 4. It will be in the auditorium of North Hagerstown High School at 8:15.

Mr. Goren will illustrate his system for the beginner as well as the advanced player. His column is a daily feature of The Cumberland News.

It is for the benefit of the Women's Club. Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Julia Lewis at the Ave Maria Shop, Frederick Street.

Yesterday, A. J. Feigus, president of the Western Maryland Bridge Association, said he expects a number of members of the association, the Duplicate Club and Potomac Valley Bridge Club, as well as visitors attending the annual tournament here at the Cumberland Country Club, the latter part of April, to attend the lecture.

John H. Brown, Green Spring, W. Va., is a surgical patient in Memorial Hospital. He is an employee of the Potomac Edison Company.

AUTOMATIC
with BLEACH
DISPENSER

NO DILUTING...
Just add concentrated bleach through dispenser opening; bleach remains in separate container where it is automatically diluted at least four times before being introduced into the wash water. Eliminates pre-mixing forever.

NO WAITING...
Maytag does the waiting for you. Properly diluted bleach remains in dispenser until wash water is added. Washing action starts. Bleach is then washed slowly over a four minute period to provide uniform effective bleaching action and to insure clean, brighter and whiter clothing. Only Maytag provides this automatic delay.

PREVENTS DAMAGE TO FABRICS...
By providing automatic dilution and properly timed injection, Maytag prevents heavy concentrations of bleach from coming in contact with clothes. Gone forever are the holes in clothes, the weakened fibres, the uneven bleaching associated with strong liquid bleaches.

NO HALF-HEARTED DETERGENTS...
Modern detergents contain brightening agents which are destroyed by liquid bleach when bleach and detergent are added to wash water at the same time. By delaying the introduction of bleach until after the detergent has started, Maytag preserves the full effectiveness of your detergent and clothes come out sparkling clean, white, and color bright wash after wash.

and MAYTAG lint-filter agitator gives cleaner, lint-free washings

Maximum Lint Removal Positive Detergent Distribution Greater Washing Action

New full time filter is under water where all lint is, provides constant filtration. Lint is filtered out as water circulates through agitator. No pans or trays to get in the way.

Detergent dispenser in agitator prevents damage to fabrics from undissolved detergent. Simply add detergent; circulating water dissolves it completely before contact with clothes.

Wash water circulated through the Filter Agitator is forced out through channels in the bottom to amplify normal agitation. Loosens even deep down dirt in seconds.

Insurance Rate For County To Be Hiked May 1

Phimore Fleming, local manager of the Blue Cross and Blue Shield hospitalization plans, appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday to outline an increase in fees for the year starting May 1.

Fleming told the board that when the Blue Cross organization entered into a contract to cover the county employees last May it meant a saving of approximately $10,000 to the county and its employees.

Due to the experience rating during the year and rising hospital and medical costs, Fleming said, it will be necessary to increase the county's share of the cost 12 cents per employee per month. For employees with families the cost increase will be 36 cents monthly. County employees who are single will not have to pay any additional cost as the county covers each individual employee and the employee is responsible for his family's coverage under the plan.

Fleming said that the overall increase to the county would not be much over $400 for the coming year. The increase averages about five percent, he added.

Commissioner John J. Rowan told Fleming the board would look into the matter. He said that Fleming could appreciate the problems the board has in financial matters as he (Fleming) is a member of the Cumberland City Council.

Holy Name To Hold Breakfast Sunday

Local Physician To Take State Office

Dr. Leslie E. Daugherty, of Cumberland, will take office as president of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland April 17 at its annual meeting. His first official action will be to accept the traditional inscribed gavel from retiring president, Dr. J. Sheldon Eastland, of Baltimore.

Other physicians assuming office in the State Medical Society will be: Dr. Robert W. Farr, Chestertown, Dr. Page C. Jett, Prince Frederick and Dr. Samuel Morrison, Baltimore, vice presidents; Dr. William Carl Ebeling, Baltimore, secretary; Dr. Wetherbee Fort, Baltimore, treasurer; Dr. Howard M. Hubert, Baltimore, Dr. Albert E. Goldstein, Baltimore, Dr. Amos R. Kooztz, Baltimore, Dr. John Mace, Jr., Cambridge, and Dr. R. Carmichael Tilghman, Baltimore, councilors.

Dr. Daugherty, an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, received his medical degree from Cincinnati Medical College in 1915. He spent two years in residence at Bellevue and Allied Hospitals in New York City. He took postgraduate training in otolaryngology at the University of Pennsylvania Graduate School of Medicine and in ophthalmology at Harvard University.

Engineer Chapter To Meet Tomorrow

The third organizational meeting of the proposed Cumberland chapter of the Maryland Society of Professional Engineers will be held Thursday at 7:30 p. m. at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company Plant.

Professional engineers, engineers-in-training and land surveyors are invited to attend by John I. Coleman, chairman of the organization committee.

• GOP Looks For A Gathering Spot

The city for the 1960 Republican national convention, along with a successor to Chairman Meade Alcorn, is to be chosen by the Republican National Committee in Washington, D. C., on Saturday. On the eve of its sessions the "dope" was that the choice wouldn't be either Los Angeles or San Francisco.

That's because California is the native habitat of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, one of the two outstanding possibilities at present for the Presidential nomination. And to hold the convention in the state of one candidate, runs the old dictum, is to give him an advantage over the others.

That consideration would rule out the choice of New York City, inasmuch as the other prominent nomination possibility is Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. It could even rule out Philadelphia, for Pennsylvania is close to New York—geographically.

Yet the choice of convention city has often proved less significant than the dictum holds. The Republicans met in Chicago in 1920 but rejected Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois. Four years later Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York couldn't make it though the Democrats met in New York City.

Smith made it in 1928 at Houston, Tex., in an area where feelings were supposed to run strong against Wets and Catholics. In 1952 Middle Westerner Robert A. Taft bowed at Chicago to General Eisenhower, New York resident. And the Democrats have picked Los Angeles for their 1960 convention despite some talk about Governor E. G. ("Pat") Brown of California for their Presidential nomination.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Flowers Of Spring

Apparently the Senate went all agog with spring, tra-la, etc. The subject under discussion was the national flower and according to Senator Allott of Colorado "... Various proposals for designation of our national flower are springing forth like shoots after a wet spring. They threaten to overrun other, even more vital issues."

The Senator faced this very trying situation: "I have nothing but the deepest of respect for my Midwestern friends who champion the corn tassel. There is no great personal objection on my part to the reproductive significance of this fertile portion of that grand vegetable..."

To me, as a city slicker, this was, indeed, novel. I never knew before that corn had a flower. I just thought nature put tassels there to look fancy. I knew what the silk of the corn was for. It was for kids to wrap in newspaper and to smoke when nobody was looking.

Still and all, it depends upon where you come from. If you're a New Yorker, you eat corn in the summer-time, covered with butter and salt and pepper; if you come from Iowa, you eat corn meal mush covered with rich honey and corn bread with gobs of yellow butter; if you come from the South, you eat hominy which they say is made from corn although the resemblance is coincidental. Finally, if you come from Kentucky, the corn is whisky and is called bourbon.

But does that make the tassel the national flower? Well, Senator Allott did not beg the question. In the "spirit of Webster, Clay and Calhoun," he offered the carnation as the national flower.

The reason why the carnation is superior to the corn tassel, according to Senator Allott, is that it offers no problems, no thorns, no foliage drop-off, virtually no allergic effects. Of course, the corn tassel can be symbolic of many problems and allergies, including the possibility of the intemperate putting a bun on, as the expression goes. I cannot avoid quoting the Senator's grand peroration on the carnation:

"In selecting something so beautiful as a national flower should be, let us cultivate the good which makes America. Let us not mock the flower or mimic other nations. Let us not quarrel over such matters. Let us unite behind the carnation. Let us resolve this floral dispute by forging the second 'great compromise.'"

My good friend, Senator Dirksen, went historical on the subject and quothed concerning the War of the Roses between the Houses of York and Lancaster in jolly old England. But we need not concern ourselves with such ancient or alien matters. Let us stick to horticulture.

Senator Keating of New York, who is new to the Senate, had been sent a carnation by Senator Allott, for which the learned gentleman from Colorado thanked the distinguished gentleman from New York. Senator Keating, however, was for neither the carnation nor the corn tassel. His favorite is the rose, which according to the learned Senator from New York has been on this continent 33,000,000 years, which makes it native indeed. He said, in fact, that fossils of the ancient rose were found in Colorado which should have an enormous influence on the Senator from that state, as Senators are supposed to favor whatever comes from their own state. That is the way the game is played.

Senator Allott replied that he was without antagonism to the beautiful and fragrant rose but five other countries had adopted the rose as their national flower. That, indeed, does present a serious quandary. Shall the United States imitate other countries? Have we become so lowly that we must imitate foreigners even as regards our flowers?

At this point, I rest my essay into horticulture, except to point out that Senator, informed of Kentucky who ought to know about corn, informed the Senate that the corn tassel is only the male part of the flower. Senator Paul Douglas, who is a profound scholar in the field of economics and is not to be diverted by the trivialities of beauty and sex, announced his undying devotion to the corn tassel.

Western Alliance Test Shows Good Early Results

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON. During the past week, the Western Alliance has been tested on the grave problem of Berlin, with excellent preliminary results.

Two simultaneous but quite different tests were conducted, both of them here in Washington. The more conspicuous was the tenth anniversary meeting of the NATO Council. At this meeting, some people expected the Scandinavians and other smaller NATO powers to press for a softer Western policy in the Berlin crisis. There was no such pressure. On the contrary, there was striking unanimity that surrender at Berlin would lead on to surrender everywhere.

The more important test, however, was a series of discussions of the Berlin problem by the spokesmen of the three nations that have directly guaranteed the threatened city: Britain, France and the United States. For obvious practical reasons, these talks between British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, and Acting Secretary of State Christian Herter were more than once expanded to include the German Foreign Minister, Heinrich von Brentano.

These talks were the more important of the two tests for rather obvious reasons. They included the men with the heaviest responsibilities. They concerned the right line to adopt at the May Foreign Ministers' meeting in Geneva and the ensuing Summit meeting — and this is now the key question needing immediate answer. Finally, these talks were the first place to look for serious symptoms of disunity in the week's grand assembly of the West, since this was where British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd chiefly said what he had come to Washington to say.

Far too much can be made of the divergence between the British view and the Franco-German-American view. The British Government has never at any time advocated the abandonment of Free Berlin, although rather important elements in Britain have gone almost this far.

Yet the British Government has been more reluctant than the French, West German or American Governments to commit itself to determined measures for the defense of Free Berlin, if that grim need arises. And the British Government has been much more eager than the other governments to "ease tensions" as they keep saying, by giving the Soviets, if not of the main cake at Berlin, at least a big bag-full of fairly desirable cookies.

The issue between the British and the three other Allies in the talks here in Washington was whether to go to Geneva with a bag-full of cookies for immediate Soviet consumption. In other words, the British wish to open the Geneva meeting by offering a program of concessions, which would allegedly create a common ground for fruitful discussion.

The concessions the British have been thinking about are known to be: first, some sort of de facto recognition of the status quo in the Eastern European satellite area, including East Germany; second, some sort of symbolic change in the status of Free Berlin and of the Western garrisons there; and third, the injection of the United Nations, in one way or another, into the complex Berlin picture.

But British Foreign Secretary Lloyd, instead of arguing for this program, point by point, was required to debate a quite different issue. In brief, the American and French Governments made the point, with West German assent, that every negotiation with the Soviets is a session of super-Oriental hagglng. Begin the Geneva negotiation by offering concessions, they said, and you are then certain to be asked to make a great many further concessions of a much more serious nature. Therefore, they concluded, good tactics require the Western Powers to go to Geneva with the simple intention of defending Western rights, leaving the problem of concessions to be considered on the spot if necessary.

It is hard to decide whether Foreign Secretary Lloyd was convinced by the logic of this argument, or whether he was simply impressed by the united front of the other chief Western Allies. At any rate, he accepted their argument. No doubt the Western negotiators will go to Geneva with a general idea of their maximum fall-back position. But they will not concede their fall-back position at the outset, because of the certainty that they would then be asked to fall back much further.

In this manner, the Western Allies have safely got through what may be called the trial rounds before Geneva. It remains to be seen how the Alliance will meet the far more severe tests that are sure to come, when the threat to be countered will be immediate and concrete, rather than hypothetical and still remote in time.

Prime Minister Macmillan wants to be re-elected.

FROM BRITISH TALKS WITH U. S. AND ALLIES — Selwyn Lloyd believes the Russians intend to be reasonable at the foreign ministers conference, also at the Summit meeting. He believes the Berlin crisis may turn out to be a blessing. It may remove cold war tensions. He expressed the view that Khrushchev may well have stirred up the Berlin crisis deliberately in order to prod the West into a Summit conference. Lloyd was convinced the Russians would not start war over Berlin.

A rather lengthy and important diagnosis of what is happening inside Russia and how it affects the West was given by the British Foreign Minister, based on his recent trip to Moscow. It was by far the most important viewpoint expressed at the NATO meeting. In brief, he balanced political differences inside NATO off against political differences inside Russia, as follows:

INSIDE NATO — Some Western leaders believe that an end of the cold war would bring disunity among the NATO allies and a spread of neutralism toward Moscow. Without the threat of Russian aggression and the cold war, NATO would fall apart.

INSIDE THE KREMLIN — Exactly the same dissension is taking place among Russian leaders. The anti-West, conservative, pro-Stalin clique in opposition to Khrushchev believes in more armament and more ability to crack down on the West. The liberal clique led by Khrushchev believes it's possible to relieve pressures and get along with the West.

Elaborating these ideas, the British claimed that relieving cold war tensions would encourage peaceful forces inside Russia, that the West could afford the same lessening of tension if it strengthened pro-West forces inside the Kremlin.

The cold war, the British argued, keeps the cork on the Soviet Union. It keeps tensions bot-led up. It discourages the very healthy trend of the Russian people toward broader education, higher standards of living, and greater tolerance. The higher the level of education and living standards in Russia, Selwyn Lloyd argued, the more the Russians want to negotiate, not fight. Therefore, the British position is to use Berlin as a means of establishing a better understanding with Russia. This can be done, the British claimed, without surrendering any of our real responsibilities in Berlin.

FROM OTHER ALLIED LEADERS — Reactions to the British position came from one NATO foreign minister as follows: "Lloyd has been reading the tea leaves instead of Khrushchev's speeches." From U. N. Secretary Dag Hammarskjöld, privately: The Russians may agree to a limited number of troops in Berlin, but under no conditions will agree to the present allied troop occupation. The Russians will go to the brink of war, perhaps over it to enforce their demands. And they will permit no lengthy stalling in order to talk the crisis to death.

FROM INTELLIGENCE REPORTS — U. S. reports from Moscow bear out the general British contention that Khrushchev is not entirely his own master, that he faces opposition from the Stalinist, die-hard, anti-West clique.

U. S. observers don't quite know what to make of it, but ex-Foreign Minister Molotov, leader of this clique, was suddenly summoned from his semi-exile in Mongolia last week for consultations in Moscow. Molotov has been in the Kremlin doghouse ever since he opposed Khrushchev's so-called "liberalism." What he talked about is not known, but speculation is that it pertained to the Berlin crisis.

Molotov flew back to Mongolia with no indication that his job as ambassador to Mongolia was being changed or that he was being removed from the Kremlin doghouse.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

When there is something unpleasant to do, my tendency is to postpone, to snarl, to mutter to myself, to search for other and more pleasant things to do. When I run out of excuses, I will turn toward the unpleasant thing quickly, and do it speedily and with a mighty grinding of gears.

I'm that way about health. I read all there is to read on the subject, and I can discourse on it like a drunken quack, but when it comes to those semi-annual visits to the doctor, or the dentist, I'm too busy. Since December, I've been trying to get to the doctor and the dentist.

I made it last week. Made both. Not once, but several times. My car careened around the countryside of a middle New Jersey, pulling to a stop only where the sign said: "No Parking, Doctor." As I am not a doctor, the sign couldn't have referred to me.

First it was Doctor Charles Kelly. He is an internist in Red Bank. He is a short, dark, good-looking man, young and brimful of suspicion. He and Doctor George Sheehan are a team. When they heard that I was coming, they tossed a coin. Punched, lost. So he listened, weighed, regarded, opened, closed, hefted, and said wearily: "You ought to lose 26 pounds. Otherwise, okay."

From there, it was a short hop to the office of Dr. Vincent Whelan. He's a roentgenologist, an expert in X-ray. This doctor is stocky, wears a beautiful, grinning Irish face, and has a house full of assistants and machines that look as if they came out of those horror movies.

A pretty redhead showed me to one of the midget dressing rooms. There I took off everything "except the sox, please," and donned a laundry bag. In no time, with no breakfast, I was led to the slaughter in a dark room where someone asked me to drink a glassful of chalk, which I poured into the right ear. The doctor could be seen, in pastel green skin, reflected in his own fluoroscope. He was looking at my plumbing.

He made a gastro-intestinal series of pictures and, on two separate days, Dr. Whelan had so much barium in me that, under the X-ray, I looked like a thermometer with a black bubble in the middle.

His technical assistant, a man of vast experience in the army and out, kept singing out in the dark: "Hold your breath. Don't breathe. . . . Now you can breathe."

Sometimes, days are required before the patient gets a verdict. Not so with Whelan. He phoned my doctor two hours after the final pictures were taken, while the portraits were still wet, and said: "Preliminary report on Bishop. Everything appears to be negative. I'll give you a type-written rundown later."

I barely had time to work up a good sweat before I had the answer. From there, it was a breeze to get to the Long Branch office of Dr. Milton Ross. He's a dentist. I expected a greeting like: "I've been reading your columns about dentistry. I can't wait to run the high speed drill across your tongue."

He didn't say it. He is a short, compact man who rates highly among his fellows. He was professionally polite, and he assured me that there would be no pain in the first day's work. I said: "Ha!" He called his nurse, the smiling Mrs. Carl Larson, and I sat in the chair at 1:05 p. m. I got out at 6:10 p. m.

The doctor's hands worked ceaselessly and expertly. The drill whirled, the casts were white and malleable, I washed my mouth out more times than a youngster who has been caught saying a naughty word, the test fittings were done quietly and expeditiously, teeth were matched against old X-rays and filed down to size, temporary plastic jackets went on tighter and tighter, the lips tingled under the nervous tread of a thousand bees, and, at last, the bib came off, the opaque lamp was clicked off, and Mrs. Larson marked a new appointment in the book.

I put on my jacket and felt good. After much hesitation, I had done something positive about my health. "How come," I said to Dr. Ross, "that you didn't mention the column on dentistry?"

"What's the use?" he said pleasantly. "The sensible dentists realize that you don't know what you're talking about." . . .

After thinking it over we've come to the conclusion that there is nothing as over-rated as the first weeks of spring.

It's estimated that amateur photographers in the U.S. spend more than $400 million annually on supplies and equipment. That's hard to believe!

Fats In The Diet Of The Diabetic Patient

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Before the discovery of insulin, 64 per cent of all diabetics died in coma. They lost weight and strength gradually, despite a ravenous appetite and insatiable thirst. The physician was forced to stand by helplessly while his patient slowly slipped into a coma and passed away. Now only 1 per cent die in this way.

Insulin made the difference because it helped the diabetic burn up the excess carbohydrates and unused fats in the diet that were responsible for the coma. In addition, several antidiabetic pills, such as Orinase and Diabinese, are a boon to diabetics because they are so convenient to take. The tablets help 50 per cent of victims of this disease but are ineffective in childhood and in severe adult cases.

Insulin prolongs the life of the diabetic but does not make him immortal. Statistics show that 75 per cent ultimately succumb to heart disease or other conditions associated with hardening of the arteries.

It is here that fats reenter the picture because the diabetic diet contains a liberal supply of this food element. These are the same fats currently blamed for the high incidence of heart disease among nondiabetics. Fats are said to increase the number of certain fatty molecules, such as cholesterol, in the blood. The saturated fats, such as those that are solid at room temperature, are more likely culprits than the unsaturated fats that are liquid (oily) at room temperature.

Some diabetics may be concerned about their diet, especially if tests disclosed a high blood cholesterol. Statistics show, however, that a high blood cholesterol level in the diabetic tends to drop when normal weight is maintained and diabetes is under control.

There is no harm in using more vegetable oils or in taking products recommended for lowering blood cholesterol. Exercise is excellent because it decreases not only the cholesterol level but also the amount of sugar in the blood. TOMORROW: The allergic constitution.

The stingiest man in town couldn't get out of sending a lady friend a birthday gift, but he was determined to spend as little on it as possible. He finally dug up a vase that had been broken, marked down next to nothing, and had it sent, hoping she would conclude it had been broken in transit.

His "thank-you" note was a classic. "How generous of you it was to send that unique vase," she wrote, "and how thoughtful of the store to wrap each broken piece separately!"

Hampshire Co. Jurors Indict Several Youths

One Young Man Sentenced To Pen

ROMNEY — The Hampshire County grand jury convened and returned several indictments Monday.

James Orr, 20, of the Three Churches area, was indicted on two charges of grand larceny and four separate counts of petty larceny.

Orr pleaded guilty to the six charges and was sentenced by Judge H. Gus Muntzing from one to ten years in the West Virginia Penitentiary.

The young man was recently released from the Boys Camp at Davis where he served one year for a series of breaking and enterings of cabins in the South Branch area.

A juvenile, Roger Barnes, 18, also of the Three Churches area, was indicted on the same six counts as Orr.

Judge Muntzing asked the grand jurors to consider Barnes as an adult and not to indict him as a juvenile.

Barnes entered pleas of guilty to the six charges and Judge Muntzing ordered him released until July when he will pass sentence.

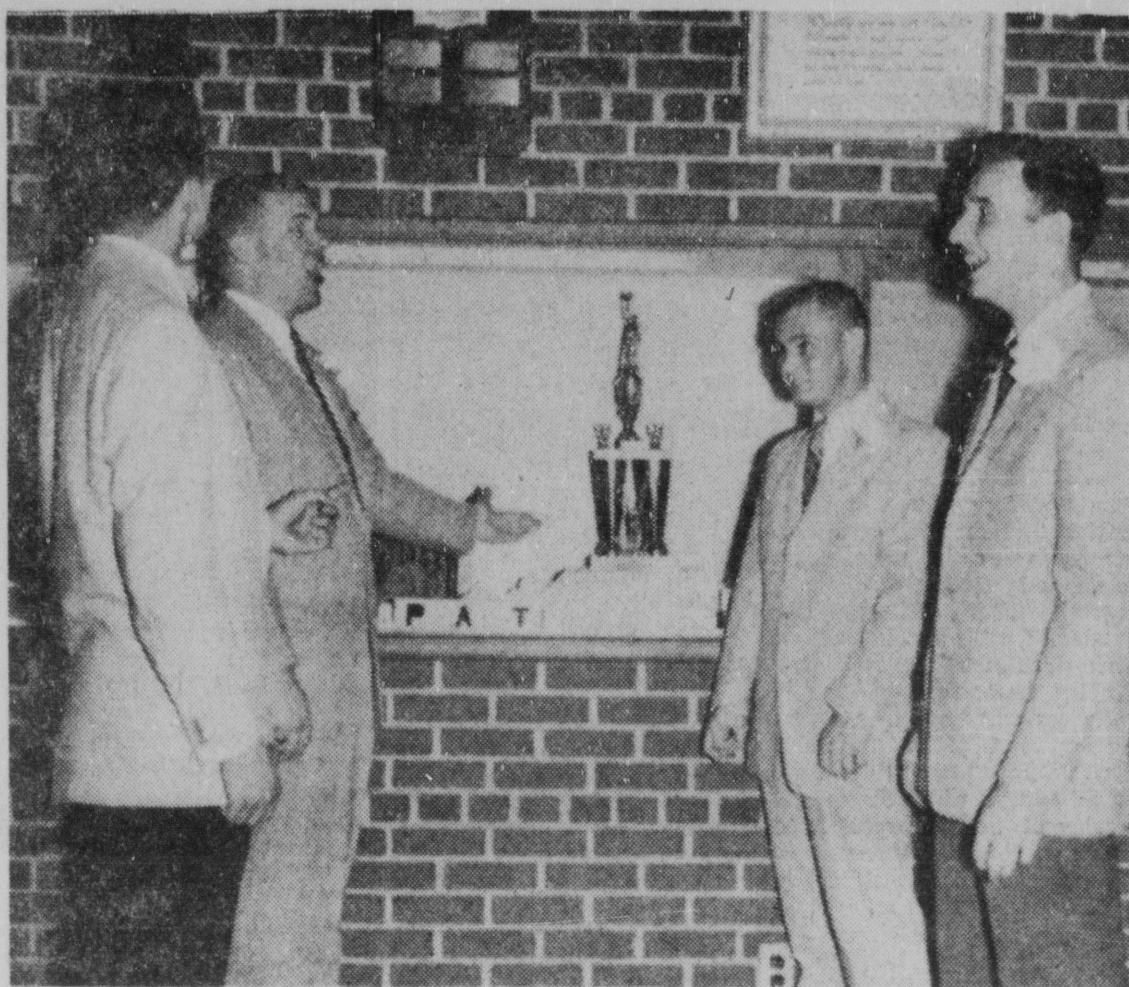

Hetzel E. Lewis, 36, of Levels, W. Va., was indicted on two counts of forgery, one count involving a bad check of $300 and another bad check of $25.

He pleaded guilty to both charges, and was sentenced from two to ten years in the West Virginia Penitentiary on each charge. Judge Muntzing noted that the sentences are to be served concurrently.

Emory Davis, 46, of Hoy, W. Va., was indicted on three separate counts involving minor girls. Judge Muntzing ordered the case continued until Thursday.

Four juveniles of the Augusta, W. Va., area were placed on parole until July on charges resulting from destruction of an abandoned house.

Several other juveniles who had been involved in the case with Orr and Barnes had their paroles continued until July by Judge Muntzing.

The following officers were elected: president, Mrs. Lizzie Williams; vice president, Mrs. Amy Miller; secretary, Mrs. Mabel Krampf; and treasurer, Mrs. Mamie Ruth Myers.

Officers for the Ladies Aid include: president, Mrs. Ruth Myers; secretary, Mrs. Alvonia Johnson; and treasurer, Mrs. Edna Lowery.

The Spring Institute was announced for April 16 at Shanksville. Eleven members answered roll call. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Edna Lowery and Mrs. Ruth Myers.

Eckhart Club Plans 32nd Anniversary

ECKHART — Thirty-second anniversary plans were formulated at a meeting of Eckhart Homemakers Club, Monday evening at the Square Circle Club. It is to be held in the form of a covered dish supper, May 14 at the club house. Each member is to bring a covered dish.

Members also were asked to increase membership to Rural Women's Short Course, this year.

Ways of making Eckhart a better, cleaner and more beautiful town in which to live were discussed. The Lord's Prayer and salute to the flag were given in unison, and "Christ the Lord Is Risen," sung. Mrs. Molly Dudley gave the history of the hymn. The junior 4-H Girls, with Mrs. Jane Harrison, leader, demonstrated how to pack a lunch and showed useful kitchen gadgets.

Following the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Maude Porter and Mrs. Dorothy Loar. There were 30 4-H members and 25 Homemakers present.

State Trapper Talks To Club At Frostburg

Outlines Duties To Rotarians

FROSTBURG — James Beal, Finzel, state trapper for the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission, was speaker at last night's meeting of the Frostburg Rotary Club held in the Sunday School room of the Zion United Church of Christ. Howard F. Ward was program chairman for the evening and introduced the speaker.

The program was in the form of a question and answer session between Beal and Ward with the questions concerning duties of a state trapper.

In the course of the questioning Beal stated that he has spent most of his life in the woods and with wild life. His job as trapper serves a fourfold purpose: Conservation—in that wild life is given a chance to survive by reducing the predator, or keeping him under control; Economical—in that turkey and chicken raisers lose hundreds of fowl in areas where predators are in abundance. When the predator is controlled farmers losses go down. Health—in that rabid animals are kept under control thus keeping rabies from spreading or human life being endangered. Finally, Game Control—in that Nature's balance has been upset by man and as a result man must maintain an artificial balance by destroying the predatory animals who multiply much faster than game animals.

Beal also demonstrated how trapping "sets" were made and materials used.

Earle Bisher the "On To Bedford" chairman announced that reservations should be made immediately for the 75th District Conference of Rotary International which will be held April 26 and 27 at Bedford Springs Hotel. Appearing on the program will be Theodore Distler, executive secretary of the Association of American Colleges, Washington. His subject will be "Let's Talk Things Over." Herb Letts, councillor from Rotary International will speak Monday; Charles E. Dearnley who is representing the International President, Cliff Randall will participate in the first plenary session, Monday at 10:45 a. m.

Dr. Ernest Church, past district governor and president of Potomac State College, Keyser, will speak Monday at noon on "My Trip to Russia." Leonard Reed, president of the Foundation for Economic Education, Irvington-on-Hudson, New York is scheduled for Monday evening.

Bisher stated that all Rotarians are urged to be present with their Rotary Annas as a program has been arranged for the ladies.

Brush Fire Endangers 4 Homes

Firemen Halt Blaze At Barton

BARTON — Three or four homes were in the path of a brush fire which scorched about five acres of land yesterday in the vicinity of Flat Rock Bridge.

James Lambertson, chief of the Barton volunteer fire company, said that William Crable, of Lonaconing, owner of the land, had decided to clear off a lot about 2:15 p. m. yesterday, and lit off a fire.

Fanned by brisk winds the fire got out of control and the fire-fighters were summoned. They laid about 2,100 feet of hose and used water from their two pumps. The equipment truck was taken along.

Firemen also used brooms to fight the flames which burned an area near the homes. The land is located off Maryland Route 36 toward Westernport.

Safe Cracked In Store At Petersburg

Police Report $600 Stolen

PETERSBURG—Another safe-cracking was pulled off in the area, and authorities are still without a solid lead.

West Virginia State Police here reported that a safe in the Southern States Store in Petersburg was "tapped" sometime Friday night.

Authorities in Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania have been faced with several safe-crackings in the past several months. More than $1,000 was taken from the Pepsi Cola plant on Chase Street, Cumberland, and a small amount was taken from a safe in Ridgeley High School.

Other "safe jobs" have been reported in Hyndman, Pa., Oakland, Kingwood and the Romney area.

Cpl. C. H. Phillips and Trooper John Leeson of Petersburg are investigating the case here.

Cpl. Phillips said whoever cracked the Petersburg safe must have spent some time in the building. They entered by a back door and took more than $600 in cash from the safe.

Police said before entering the building the intruders broke into the South Side Garage across the street from the Southern States Store and stole two tanks of oxygen and a torch.

The thieves cut a hole in the center of the safe and used a wire to "fish" out the money. Although $600 was "fished" out, a large amount of money was overlooked by the thieves.

Cpl. Phillips said the thieves used a regular welding head on the torch instead of a cutting head, and must have spent considerable time in cutting through the two inches of steel. The safe was still warm when the case was discovered Saturday morning.

Refreshments will be served by the homemaking committee following the business meeting.

ENDS TOUR OF DUTY—Sgt. Clarence Broadwater of Lonaconing has arrived home with an honorable discharge from the U. S. Air Force. Having completed four years of service at Newfoundland, Texas, New York and other Air Force bases, he returned from the Newfoundland base last Sunday. He is at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Klavuhn, Detmold, Lonaconing.

Women Of Moose Meet Thursday
FROSTBURG—Women of the Moose, Chapter 221, will meet Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the Moose Home, West Main Street. Mrs. Wanda Langley, home-making chairman, will be in charge of the chapter night program. Mrs. Langley has requested that all co-workers who wish to contribute to the bakeless bake sale project, have their donations in at this meeting. Plans will be made to attend the grand chancellor day meeting at Piedmont, April 12 and the friendship meeting at Moorefield, April 19. Refreshments will be served by the homemaking committee following the business meeting.

Jackets Top Warriors In 3-0 Contest

Junior Southpaw Faces 21; Keyser Tops Ft. Ashby, 4-1

Billy Tooley, Moorefield High School southpaw, pitched a perfect game yesterday as Coach George Holt's Yellowjackets defeated Wardensville High School's Warriors in a Potomac Valley Conference game at Moorefield by the score of 3-0.

Tooley, 140-pound junior, faced only 21 batters in the seven-inning contest, failed to yield a hit or run, did not issue any bases on balls and struck out three batters. In fact, Wardensville failed to get a single runner on base. The Jackets played errorless ball all day.

Events Win Series

By winning yesterday's game Moorefield averaged a 6-4 defeat suffered at the hands of the Warriors on April 1.

Virgil Heishman, who pitched the Warriors to victory in the series opener, was the loser in yesterday's game although he turned in a two-hit performance. Keller's double and Fisher's single were the only hits credited to Moorefield. The Jackets scored one run in the first inning and two in the fourth.

Moorefield plays at Franklin Friday while Wardensville visits Capon Bridge.

Keyser Wins Opener

In another P.V.C. game staged yesterday, Dave Wilson tossed a two-hitter as Keyser High School launched its campaign with a 4-1 decision over Fort Ashby High School at Keyser.

Wilson gave up a double to Bill Price and a single to Arlie Dolly, moved down nine via the strike-out route and failed to issue a pass in going the route for Coach Fred "Tack" Clark's Golden Trojans.

Narold Herschberger, Fort Ashby twirler, yielded five safeties, two of which were credited to Gary Keedy, fanned seven and issued three bases on balls. Keedy batted in two of Keyser's four runs. Three errors paved the way for Fort Ashby's only tally in the sixth frame.

Keyser plays host to Fort Hill High School in an exhibition game today at 4 p. m. in Keyser. Romney hosts Keyser in a P.V.C. contest Friday afternoon.

Insurance Rate For County To Be Hiked May 1

Philmore Fleming, local manager of the Blue Cross and Blue Shield hospitalization plans, appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday to outline an increase in fees for the year starting May

Fleming told the board that when the Blue Cross organization entered into a contract to cover the county employees last May it meant a saving of approximately $10,000 to the county and its employees.

Due to the experience rating during the year and rising hospital and medical costs, Fleming said, it will be necessary to increase the county's share of the cost 12 cents per employee per month. For employees with families the cost increase will be 36 cents monthly. County employees who are single will not have to pay any additional cost as the county covers each individual employee and the employee is responsible for his family's coverage under the plan.

Fleming said that the overall increase to the county would not be much over $400 for the coming year. The increase averages about five percent, he added.

Commissioner John J. Rowan noted that the board would look into the matter. He said that Fleming could appreciate the fact that the board has in financial matters as he (Fleming) is a member of the Cumberland City Council.

Holy Name To Hold Breakfast Sunday

The Holy Name Society of St. Patrick's Catholic Church will hold its annual Communion breakfast this Sunday following the 7 a. m. Mass.

Rev. Dr. Joseph F. Thorning, noted Jesuit educator, will speak at the breakfast. James Reinhart is serving as chairman of the affair.

Local Physician To Take State Office

Dr. Leslie E. Daugherty, of Cumberland, will take office as president of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland April 17 at its annual meeting. His first official action will be to accept the traditional inscribed gavel from retiring president, Dr. J. Sheldon Eastland, of Baltimore.

Other physicians assuming office in the State Medical Society will be: Dr. Robert W. Farr, Chestertown, Dr. Page C. Jett, Prince Frederick and Dr. Samuel Morrison, Baltimore, vice presidents; Dr. William Carl Ebeling, Baltimore, secretary; Dr. Wetherbee Fort, Baltimore, treasurer; Dr. Howard M. Bubert, Baltimore, Dr. Albert E. Goldstein, Baltimore, Dr. Amos R. Koontz, Baltimore, Dr. John Mace, Jr., Cambridge, and Dr. R. Carmichael Tilghman, Baltimore, councilors.

Dr. Daugherty, an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, received his medical degree from Cincinnati Medical College in 1915. He spent two years in residence at Bellevue and Allied Hospitals in New York City. He took postgraduate training in otolaryngology at the University of Pennsylvania Graduate School of Medicine and in ophthalmology at Harvard University Massachuchusetts Eye and Ear Hospital. Upon completion of his residency, Dr. Daugherty began general practice in Thomas, W. Va. A year later he entered the Army Medical Corps and was assigned to Camp Grant, Ill. as camp orthopedic surgeon.

In 1921 Dr. Daugherty established his specialty practice in Cumberland. He has held the position of chief of eye, ear, nose and throat at Sacred Heart and Memorial Hospitals here for a number of years and has been president and secretary of the Memorial Hospital medical staff.

For the past nine years Dr. Daugherty has been medical director of Civil Defense for Allegany County. He is vice president of the Allegany-Garrett County Medical Society and, as a member of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland, has served on the editorial board of the Maryland State Medical Journal since its first publication in 1952. He is a diplomate of the American Board of Otolaryngology, a member of the American Medical Association, the Southern Medical Association, the World Medical Association, the Pan American Association of Ophthalmology, and the American Medical Writers Association.

Greatly interested in the history of medicine in Western Maryland, Dr. Daugherty is writing a book on the subject. He is also director of the medical section of the Allegany-Garrett County Historical Society.

Active also in civic affairs, Dr. Daugherty has twice been president of the Cumberland Lions Club, served as Boy Scout commissioner for a number of years and was a scoutmaster.

As an amateur photographer he has had photographs exhibited at the A. M. A. and the Physicians Art Association in Chicago. On his farm near Bedford, Pa., he raises purebred Hereford cattle and saddle horses. He also enjoys hunting.

Home Building Up As February Total Dips In Maryland

Contracts for future construction in February in Maryland totaled $53,315,000 a decrease of 8 per cent compared to February 1958, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation.

A breakdown of contracts by the major construction categories in February, compared to the corresponding 1958 month, showed: non-residential at $11,372,000, up substantially; residential at $21,388,000, up 47 per cent, and heavy engineering at $20,555,000, down 45 per cent.

According to Dodge figures, the cumulative total of contracts for the first two months of 1959 amounted to $107,830,000, up 5 per cent. Cumulative total of contracts in the major construction categories showed: non-residential at $29,549,000, up substantially; residential at $37,150,000, up 12 per cent; and heavy engineering at $41,181,000, down 21 per cent compared to the like 1958 period.

City Marbles Tournament Set For May

The City Recreation Department has announced plans for a marbles tournament in May, which will include elimination rounds for representatives of 17 Cumberland public and parochial schools.

Also aiding Mason will be Robert E. Pence, physical education supervisor for the Allegany County Board of Education; and City Clerk Wallace G. Ulery who was Cumberland marbles champion in 1937. The Cumberland winner will participate in the 35th annual national contest at Asbury Park, N. J., the week of June 21-26. At least two million boys and girls will compete in eliminations which will send approximately 60 to the national finals at Asbury Park which they will shoot on cork-surfaced rings. Last year's boys' champion was Dennis Kyle of Richmond, W. Va.; and the girls' champion Jeanette Merlino of Yonkers, N. Y.

County Given Roads Report

The quarterly report of Harry Skelly, supervisor of the County Roads Department, on purchases was submitted to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday.

Skelly listed a total of $11,540.99 in expenditures for roads, bridges, equipment, tools and miscellaneous items. Purchases for roads and bridges totaled $2,615.54, equipment bought was $7,997.30, tools cost $373.79 and miscellaneous items were $555.36.

Gas, oil, tires, batteries and parts and labor costs for servicing equipment cost $9,854.21. Gas cost $3,972.88, tires, $235.57, batteries, $23.98, labor, $2,996.12 and parts, $2,545.66. In his inventory of tires Skelly lists 165 tires on hand as of December 31, 1958, five purchased during the quarter, six scrapped and 164 tires on hand as of March 31, 1959.

42 Building Permits Issued During March

Building activity in Allegany County snapped out of the winter doldrums with a bounce in March as 42 building permits for construction estimated by the builders to cost a total of $242,750 were issued by the county assessing department.

In January there had been only five permits for $18,100 and in February five for $45,500.

However, last month's pace could not match March 1958 in the total cost of construction which reached $303,475. That was for 41 permits, one fewer than this March.

Of the 42 permits obtained last month, 25 were for new dwellings, eight for garages, four for additions to dwellings, one for a dwelling and garage, one addition to a garage, one shed, one TV translator and one church recreation room.

The 20 March permits authorized work in 20 of the county's 35 election districts. All are outside the corporate limits of the seven incorporated cities and towns of Allegany County.

Election District 29 at LaVale was the March leader with nine permits. Next came Districts 11, Frostburg suburban, and 20, Ellerslie-Corrihanville. Three permits were obtained for construction in District 7, embracing the Cresaptown-Rawlings sector.

Six districts were coupled together with two permits each. They were Districts 8, Westport suburban; 16, North Branch; 22 and 23, both East Side suburban; 26, Frostburg suburban, and 31, McCoolle. Single permits were obtained in Districts 3, Flintstone; 6, West Side suburban; 9, Barton; 12, Frostburg suburban; 17, Vale Summit; 18, Midland; 19, Shaft; 21, Gross; 24, Eckhart, and 27, Gilmore.

Meetings Scheduled By City Officials

The Mayor and Council will meet tomorrow at 11 a. m. to discuss a proposed agenda for a future meeting with the State Roads Commission. Mayor Keech said no date has been set for the meeting with the SRC.

At 2 p. m. tomorrow, the survey team of the National Board of Fire Underwriters has asked for a meeting with council to discuss the fire protection check it is conducting here.

Birds have excellent hearing. The apparatus of their ears is highly perfected.

Grand Jury Urges

that law enforcement throughout the county is adequate. Observing that April has been set aside for the "Keep Maryland Clean" program, the grand jury recommends that a stricter enforcement be made regarding throwing litter along the highways and dumping of garbage and refuse, including bottles and cans, throughout the county.

In accordance with another recommendation of the January grand jury that a memorial to George Washington be erected on the Court House property, the grand jury invited J. William Hunt, chairman of the executive committee of the memorial project, to appear and relate progress made. Mr. Hunt exhibited two sketches drawn by George Conlon depicting General Washington. Mr. Hunt told the grand jurors that the committee is exploring the financing and completion of this project.

The April grand jury advocates that the next grand jury, in October, again request a report on the status of this proposal.

Last paragraph of the report expresses appreciation to State's Attorney James S. Getty, County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya, Mr. Barton, as grand jury foreman, and Mrs. Leo Shipley, the grand jury secretary, who actually typed the report.

There were three other recommendations concerning the Court House property. One is that abrasive strips be placed on each step of the stairway from the second to the third floor and that way be removed from the stairs to make them less hazardous. The second recommendation is that the connecting passage between the secretary's office and the county farm agent's office on the third floor be repaired by lengthening the ramp between the two offices.

The grand jury also urges installation of fluorescent lighting fixtures on the second floor hallway at the Court House to provide adequate lighting in the area.

The grand jury commended Mr. and Mrs. Earl Grim, for the excellent condition of the County Home and County Infirmary, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Messmer for the excellent condition and maintenance of Sylvan Retreat.

The report notes that the books of the county treasurer have been examined and were found to be in satisfactory condition, although the examination is admittedly superficial and does not permit complete examination of the bookkeeping practices used.

Dinner Club Planning Two More Programs

Speakers for two April programs of the Cumberland National Dinner Club have been announced by Douglas Smith, president of the group.

Harry I. Stegmaier, local attorney, will talk on "Western Maryland History in Review," at the April 14 dinner meeting at Central YMCA, and Philip Cummings, international traveler, will address the club on "Glamour Spots of the World" on Thursday, April 30.

"It is hoped that we can plan one more program before the end of May," Mr. Smith stated. "This will conclude the 12th season of the Cumberland National Dinner Club and will depend on the response to the two April programs."

Among the speakers who have already addressed the Dinner Clubbers this season are Fred Rorer, international pickpocket; Lucie Palmer, deep sea diver; Tom Sims, cartoonist; and Bob Ringer, humorist.

Reservations for the next two events are available at Central YMCA and can be obtained by contacting the club's secretary-treasurer, B. U. Smith.

LaSalle Seeks Top Orators

The top orator of the freshman and sophomore classes this year at LaSalle High School will be selected on Thursday afternoon during an assembly program which will begin at 1:45.

Brother G. Paulian FSC, principal, said yesterday that the junior and senior finalists will be chosen at an assembly program being planned for Thursday, April 16.

He pointed out that each class selects its top three orators who speak in the finals. One member will be chosen and will receive a medal for his endeavors at the commencement exercises at the end of the school years.

Last year's winners were James Robinette, freshman; Raymond Mewshaw, sophomore; Frank Zorick, junior, and Joseph McDade, senior.

AHS Student Council Bylaws Are Approved

By-laws for the student council of Allegany High School recently drafted by a junior class steering committee have been ratified by the student body at the school.

Under the new organization members of grades 9, 10 and 11 will register both this week and next week to be eligible to vote in the school's primary election the latter part of April and the general election to be held in May.

Officers of the student council and of the sophomore, junior and senior classes for next year will be elected.

Following registration of the students, candidates for the various council and class offices will declare their candidacy. Students running for president and vice president of the council and each class must state their platforms on petitions signed by 30 registered students and four teachers. All candidates are required to submit petitions properly endorsed.

The new organization of the bylaws is a result of interest expressed by the junior class at the first meeting of the class in its sophomore year. Miss Orpha-Bonita Pritchard is adviser to the junior class and

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Fate Had Little To Do With It

Do you admire the willow figures of models and movie stars and feel that fate was kinder to them, by giving them such slender, graceful hips and thighs. Fate probably had little to do with it. Chances are that those you envy have just learned how to handle themselves posture-wise. You'll see what I'm talking about immediately, if you'll put 2. Face and stand three inches on a swim suit or some brief shorts and stand in front of your mirror, feet together and your knees pulled back hard. See how the rigidity of this position causes a space to form between your thighs and between your calves? Even if your legs are underweight, you can learn to prevent this space from becoming apparent, just by getting into the habit of standing correctly. The secret lies in keeping your knees relaxed at all times and standing with one foot placed so that the heel touches the instep of the other foot. Try it. See how the ugly space disappears at once! If your thighs are too slender, correct posture is only part of the cure. Muscle-building exercise is the rest, and although it is not strenuous, it takes time and practice. Do the following exercises rhythmically and methodically to get the results you desire.

1. Lie on your right side on the floor. Support your head on your right arm. Put your right hand flat on the floor to balance yourself. Now, raise your left leg about six inches and then bring the right leg up to meet it. Repeat fifteen times and then turn over on your left side and try for another fifteen.
2. When you can do this with ease, try raising your left leg about twelve inches and bring your right leg up to touch it. This time lower your right leg first and then let your left leg to handle themselves posture-wise. Repeat on the opposite side.
3. By the Fourth of July you will have forgotten that your problem ever existed!

• GOP Looks For A Gathering Spot

The city for the 1960 Republican national convention, along with a successor to Chairman Meade Alcorn, is to be chosen by the Republican National Committee in Washington, D. C., on Saturday. On the eve of its sessions the "dope" was that the choice wouldn't be either Los Angeles or San Francisco.

That's because California is the native habitat of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, one of the two outstanding possibilities at present for the Presidential nomination. And to hold the convention in the state of one candidate, runs the old dictum, is to give him an advantage over the others.

That consideration would rule out the choice of New York City, inasmuch as the other prominent nomination possibility is Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York. It could even rule out Philadelphia, for Pennsylvania is close to New York—geographically.

Yet the choice of convention city has often proved less significant than the dictum holds. The Republicans met in Chicago in 1920 but rejected Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois. Four years later Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York couldn't make it though the Democrats met in New York City.

Smith made it in 1928 at Houston, Tex., in an area where feelings were supposed to run strong against Wets and Catholics. In 1952 Middle Westerner Robert A. Taft bowed at Chicago to General Eisenhower, New York resident. And the Democrats have picked Los Angeles for their 1960 convention despite some talk about Governor E. G. ("Pat") Brown of California for their Presidential nomination.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Flowers Of Spring

Apparently the Senate went all agog with spring, tra-la, etc. The subject under discussion was the national flower and according to Senator Allott of Colorado "... Various proposals for designation of our national flower are springing forth like shoots after a wet spring. They threaten to overrun other, even more vital issues."

The Senator faced this very trying situation: "I have nothing but the deepest of respect for my Midwestern friends who champion the corn tassel. There is no great personal objection on my part to the reproductive significance of this fertile portion of that grand vegetable..."

To me, as a city slicker, this was, indeed, novel. I never knew before that corn had a flower. I just thought nature put tassels there to look fancy. I knew what the silk of the corn was for. It was for kids to wrap in newspaper and to smoke when nobody was looking.

Still and all, it depends upon where you come from. If you're a New Yorker, you eat corn in the summer-time, covered with butter and salt and pepper; if you come from Iowa, you eat corn meal mush covered with rich honey and corn bread with gobs of yellow butter; if you come from the South, you eat hominy which they say is made from corn although the resemblance is coincidental. Finally, if you come from Kentucky, the corn is whisky and is called bourbon.

But does that make the tassel the national flower? Well, Senator Allott did not beg the question. In the "spirit of Webster, Clay and Calhoun," he offered the carnation as the national flower.

The reason why the carnation is superior to the corn tassel, according to Senator Allott, is that it offers no problems, no thorns, no foliage drop-off, virtually no allergic effects. Of course, the corn tassel can be symbolic of many problems and allergies, including the possibility of the intemperate putting a bun on, as the expression goes. I cannot avoid quoting the Senator's grand peroration on the carnation:

"In selecting something so beautiful as a national flower should be, let us cultivate the good which makes America. Let us not mock the flower or mimic other nations. Let us not quarrel over such matters. Let us unite behind the carnation. Let us resolve this floral dispute by forging the second 'great compromise.'"

My good friend, Senator Dirksen, went historical on the subject and quoth concerning the War of the Roses between the Houses of York and Lancaster in jolly old England. But we need not concern ourselves with such ancient or alien matters. Let us stick to horticulture.

Senator Keating of New York, who is new to the Senate, had been sent a carnation by Senator Allott, for which the learned gentleman from New York thanked the distinguished gentleman from Colorado. Senator Keating, however, was for neither the carnation nor the corn tassel. His favorite is the rose, which according to the learned Senator from New York has been on this continent 33,000,000 years, which makes it native indeed. He said, in fact, that fossils of the ancient rose were found in Colorado which should have an enormous influence on the Senator from that state, as Senators are supposed to favor whatever comes from their own state. That is the way the game is played.

Senator Allott replied that he was without antagonism to the beautiful and fragrant rose but five other countries had adopted the rose as their national flower. That, indeed, does present a serious quandary. Shall the United States imitate other countries? Have we become so lowly that we must imitate foreigners even as regards our flowers?

At this point, I rest my essay into horticulture, except to point out that Senator Morton of Kentucky who ought to know about corn, informed the Senate that the corn tassel is only the male part of the flower. Senator Paul Douglas, who is a profound scholar in the field of economics and is not to be diverted by the trivialities of beauty and sex, announced his undying devotion to the corn tassel.

Western Alliance Test Shows Good Early Results

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON. During the past week, the Western Alliance has been tested on the grave problem of Berlin, with excellent preliminary results.

Two simultaneous but quite different tests were conducted, both of them here in Washington. The more conspicuous was the tenth anniversary meeting of the NATO Council. At this meeting, some people expected the Scandinavians and other smaller NATO powers to press for a softer Western policy in the Berlin crisis. There was no such pressure. On the contrary, there was striking unanimity that surrender at Berlin would lead on to surrender everywhere.

The more important test, however, was a series of discussions of the Berlin problem by the spokesmen of the three nations that have directly guaranteed the threatened city: Britain, France and the United States. For obvious practical reasons, these talks between British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, and Acting Secretary of State Christian Herter were more than once expanded to include the German Foreign Minister, Heinrich von Brentano.

These talks were the more important of the two tests for rather obvious reasons. They included the men with the heaviest responsibilities. They concerned the right line to adopt at the May Foreign Ministers' meeting in Geneva and the ensuing Summit meeting — and this is now the key question needing immediate answer. Finally, these talks were the first place to look for serious symptoms of disunity in the week's grand assembly of the West, since this was where British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd chiefly said what he had come to Washington to say.

Far too much can be made of the divergence between the British view and the Franco-German-American view. The British Government has never at any time advocated the abandonment of Free Berlin, although rather important elements in Britain have gone almost this far.

Yet the British Government has been more reluctant than the French, West German or American Governments to commit itself to determined measures for the defense of Free Berlin, if that grim need arises. And the British Government has been much more eager than the other governments to "ease tensions" as they keep saying, by giving the Soviets, if not of the main cake at Berlin, at least a big bag-full of fairly desirable cookies.

The issue between the British and the three other Allies in the talks here in Washington was whether to go to Geneva with a bag-full of cookies for immediate Soviet consumption. In other words, the British wish to open the Geneva meeting by offering a program of concessions, which would allegedly create a common ground for fruitful discussion.

The concessions the British have been thinking about are known to be: first, some sort of de facto recognition of the status quo in the Eastern European satellite area, including East Germany; second, some sort of symbolic change in the status of Free Berlin and of the Western garrisons there; and third, the injection of the United Nations, in one way or another, into the complex Berlin picture.

But British Foreign Secretary Lloyd, instead of arguing for this program, point by point, was required to debate a quite different issue. In brief, the American and French Governments made the point, with West German assent, that every negotiation with the Soviets is a session of super-Oriental haggling. Begin the Geneva negotiation by offering concessions, they said, and you are then certain to be asked to make a great many further concessions of a much more serious nature. Therefore, they concluded, good tactics require: the Western Powers to go to Geneva with the simple intention of defending Western rights, leaving the problem of concessions to be considered on the spot if necessary.

It is hard to decide whether Foreign Secretary Lloyd was convinced by the logic of this argument, or whether he was simply impressed by the united front of the other chief Western Allies. At any rate, he accepted their argument. No doubt the Western negotiators will go to Geneva with a general idea of their maximum fall-back position. But they will not concede their fall-back position at the outset, because of the certainty that they would then be asked to fall back much further.

In this manner, the Western Allies have safely got through what may be called the trial rounds before Geneva. It remains to be seen how the Alliance will meet the far more severe tests that are sure to come, when the threat to be countered will be immediate and concrete, rather than hypothetical and still remote in time.

The battle against the viruses is making rapid strides as better laboratory equipment and methods succeed in isolating some of the thousands of specific viruses which are known to exist. Scientists now look forward with increasing confidence to the day when some kinds of cancer, and even some forms of insanity, can be treated by vaccination.

Fats In The Diet Of The Diabetic Patient

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Before the discovery of insulin, 64 per cent of all diabetics died in coma. They lost weight and strength gradually, despite a ravenous appetite and insatiable thirst. The physician was forced to stand by helplessly while his patient slowly slipped into a coma and passed away. Now only 1 per cent die in this way.

Insulin made the difference because it helped the diabetic burn up the excess carbohydrates and unused fats in the diet that were responsible for the coma. In addition, several antidiabetic pills, such as Orinase and Diabinese, are a boon to diabetics because they are so convenient to take. The tablets help 50 per cent of victims of this disease but are ineffective in childhood and in severe adult cases.

Insulin prolongs the life of the diabetic but does not make him immortal. Statistics show that 75 per cent ultimately succumb to heart disease or other conditions associated with hardening of the arteries.

It is here that fats reenter the picture because the diabetic diet contains a liberal supply of this food element. These are the same fats currently blamed for the high incidence of heart disease among nondiabetics. Fats are said to increase the number of certain fatty molecules, such as cholesterol, in the blood. The saturated fats, such as those that are solid at room temperature, are more likely culprits than the unsaturated fats that are liquid (oily) at room temperature.

Some diabetics may be concerned about their diet, especially if tests disclosed a high blood cholesterol. Statistics show, however, that a high blood cholesterol level in the diabetic tends to drop when normal weight is maintained and diabetes is under control.

There is no harm in using more vegetable oils or in taking products recommended for lowering blood cholesterol. Exercise is excellent because it decreases not only the cholesterol level but also the amount of sugar in the blood.

Selwyn Lloyd Believes Peaceful Forces Growing Inside Russia

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — At the NATO meeting of foreign ministers one British diplomat remarked privately that more than 100 diplomats were in the conference room, so he could not discuss any secret security plans for settling the Berlin crisis.

This was true. There wasn't much important policy discussed in the regularly scheduled NATO meetings, but there was plenty discussed in private huddles. It's always difficult to report on these backstage talks. But from British, American and other allied sources, this column has been able to piece together the major highlights of what happened.

FROM IKE AND THE BRITISH — Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd bitterly resented criticism that he and Prime Minister Macmillan were following the appeasement path of Sir Neville Chamberlain who surrendered to Hitler at Munich. This came up many times during the course of private conversations and it nettled the British considerably.

FROM JOHN FOSTER DULLES' VACATION SPOT — Ike talked to Dulles by long distance telephone for his reaction on various points, and to some extent American foreign policy is still being dictated by a sick man from his bedside. Dulles urged the President to stand firm and not get dragged into a Summit meeting which would end in a fiasco — no matter how much

Prime Minister Macmillan wants to be re-elected.

FROM BRITISH TALKS WITH U. S. AND ALLIES — Selwyn Lloyd believes the Russians intend to be reasonable at the foreign ministers conference, also at the Summit meeting. He believes the Berlin crisis may turn out to be a blessing. It may remove cold war tensions. He expressed the view that Khrushchev may well have stirred up the Berlin crisis deliberately in order to prod the West into a Summit conference. Lloyd was convinced the Russians would not start war over Berlin.

A rather lengthy and important diagnosis of what is happening inside Russia and how it affects the West was given by the British Foreign Minister, based on his recent trip to Moscow. It was by far the most important viewpoint expressed at the NATO meeting. In brief, he balanced political differences inside NATO off against political differences inside Russia, as follows:

INSIDE NATO — Some Western leaders believe that an end of the cold war would bring disunity among the NATO allies and a spread of neutralism toward Moscow. Without the threat of Russian aggression and the cold war, NATO would fall apart.

INSIDE THE KREMLIN — Exactly the same dissension is taking place among Russian leaders. The anti-West, conservative, pro-Stalin clique in opposition to Khrushchev believes in more armament and more ability to crack down on the West. The liberal clique led by Khrushchev believes it's possible to relieve pressures and get along with the West.

Elaborating these ideas, the British claimed that relieving cold war tensions would encourage peaceful forces inside Russia, that the West could afford the same lessening of tension if it strengthened pro-West forces inside the Kremlin.

The cold war, the British argued, keeps the cork on the Soviet Union. It keeps tensions bottled up. It discourages the very healthy trend of the Russian people toward broader education, higher standards of living, and greater tolerance. The higher the level of education and living standards in Russia, Selwyn Lloyd argued, the more the Russians want to negotiate, not fight. Therefore, the British position is to use Berlin as a means of establishing a better understanding with Russia. This can be done, the British claimed, without surrendering any of our real responsibilities in Berlin.

FROM OTHER ALLIED LEADERS — Reactions to the British position came from one NATO foreign minister as follows: "Lloyd has been reading the tea leaves instead of Khrushchev's speeches." From U. N. Secretary Dag Hammarskjöld, privately: the Russians may agree to a limited number of troops in Berlin, but under no conditions will agree to the present allied troop occupation. The Russians will go to the brink of war, perhaps over it to enforce their demands. And they will permit no lengthy stalling in order to talk the crisis to death.

FROM INTELLIGENCE REPORTS — U. S. reports from Moscow bear out the general British contention that Khrushchev is not entirely his own master, that he faces opposition from the Stalinist, die-hard, anti-West clique.

U. S. observers don't quite know what to make of it, but ex-Foreign Minister Molotov, leader of this clique, was suddenly summoned from his semi-exile in Mongolia last week for consultations in Moscow. Molotov has been in the Kremlin doghouse ever since he opposed Khrushchev's so-called "liberalism." What he talked about is not known, but speculation is that it pertained to the Berlin crisis.

Molotov flew back to Mongolia with no indication that his job as ambassador to Mongolia was being changed or that he was being removed from the Kremlin doghouse.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

When there is something unpleasant to do, my tendency is to postpone, to snarl, to mutter to myself, to search for other and more pleasant things to do. When I run out of excuses, I will turn toward the unpleasant thing quickly, and do it speedily and with a mighty grinding of gears.

I'm that way about health. I read all there is to read on the subject, and I can discourse on it like a drunken quack, but when it comes to those semi-annual visits to the doctor, or the dentist, I'm too busy. Since December, I've been trying to get to the doctor and the dentist.

I made it last week. Made both. Not once, but several times. My car careened around the countryside of middle New Jersey, pulling to a stop only where the sign said: "No Parking, Doctor." As I am not a doctor, the sign couldn't have referred to me.

First it was Doctor Charles Kelly. He is an internist in Red Bank. He is a short, dark, good-looking man, young and brimful of suspicion. He and Doctor George Sheehan are a team. When they heard that I was coming, they tossed a coin. Kelly lost. So he probed, punched, pinched, listened, weighed, regarded, opened, closed, hefted, and said wearily: "You ought to lose 26 pounds. Otherwise, okay."

From there, it was a short hop to the office of Dr. Vincent Whelan. He's a roentgenologist, an expert in X-ray. This doctor is stocky, wears a beautiful, grinning Irish face, and has a house full of assistants and machines that look as if they came out of those horror movies.

A pretty redhead showed me to one of the midgeet dressing rooms. There I took off everything "except the sox, please," and donned a laundry bag. In no time, with no breakfast, I was led to the slaughter in a dark room where someone asked me to drink a glassful of chalk, which I poured into the right ear. The doctor could be seen, in pastel green skin, reflected in his own fluorescent. He was looking at my plumbing.

He made a gastro-intestinal series of pictures and, on two separate days, Dr. Whelan had so much barium in me that, under the X-ray, I looked like a thermometer with a black bubble in the middle.

His technical assistant, a man of vast experience in the army and out, kept singing out in the dark: "Hold your breath. Don't breathe. . . . Now you can breathe."

Sometimes, days are required before the patient gets a verdict. Not so with Whelan. He phoned my doctor two hours after the final pictures were taken, while the portraits were still wet, and said: "Preliminary report on Bishop. Everything appears to be negative. I'll give you a type-written rundown later."

I barely had time to work up a good sweat before I had the answer. From there, it was a breeze to get to the Long Branch office of Dr. Milton Ross. He's a dentist. I expected a greeting like: "I've been reading your columns about dentistry. I can't wait to run the high speed drill across your tongue."

He didn't say it. He is a short, compact man who rates highly among his fellows. He was professionally polite, and he assured me that there would be no pain in the first day's work. I said: "Ha!" He called his nurse, the smiling Mrs. Carl Larson, and I sat in the chair at 1:05 p. m. I got out at 6:10 p. m.

The doctor's hands worked ceaselessly and expertly. The drill whirled, the casts were white and malleable, I washed my mouth out more times than a youngster who has been caught saying a naughty word, the test fittings were done quietly and expeditiously, teeth were matched against old X-rays and filed down to size, temporary plastic jackets went on tighter and tighter, the lips tingled under the nervous tread of a thousand bees, and, at last, the bib came off, the opaque lamp was clicked off, and Mrs. Larson marked a new appointment in the book.

I put on my jacket and felt good. After much hesitation, I had done something positive about my health. "How come," I said to Dr. Ross, "that you didn't mention the column on dentistry?"

"What's the use?" he said pleasantly. "The sensible dentists realize that you don't know what you're talking about." . . .

You're Telling Me!

After thinking it over we've come to the conclusion that there is nothing as over-rated as the first weeks of spring.

It's estimated that amateur photographers in the U.S. spend more than $400 million annually on supplies and equipment. That's hard to picture!

Venice has 117 canals within its boundaries — Factographs. No wonder it makes such a big splash as a tourist attraction!

Grampappy Jenkins suggests that perhaps the reason there were no brass bands in the Easter Parade is because the new clothes on display are usually plenty loud enough.

A radar beam directed to our sister planet Venus by a group of Massachusetts scientists bounced back to Earth within five minutes. It certainly didn't take the lonely lady of space long to answer back.

Two Major League Opening Games Scheduled Tomorrow

Redlegs Host Bucs, Orioles Face Senators

Ramos To Oppose Harshman; Purkey, Kline Selected

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The big leagues are switching the script for this year's openers. The clubs will be in the same cities but the players will be in new towns. Only about 50 per cent of last year's starters will be manning the same battle stations when the baseball season gets under way with two special openers Thursday and a seven-game schedule on Friday.

Many Are Traded
That doesn't mean that half the players have decided to stay home and play the market. Most of them merely shifted uniforms during the off season trading spree. The closest thing to standpat lineups will be offered by the New York Yankees and the Chicago White Sox, who did no swapping.

Once again the Yankees and Milwaukee Braves are favored. Casey Stengel will tie the John McGraw's feat of winning 10 pennants if he gets New York home first again. The Braves are expected to have trouble, with San Francisco and Pittsburgh as the most respected threats. Here is the two-day opening schedule that is expected to attract about 267,000 fans, par for the course.

Thursday — American League: Baltimore at Washington, National League: Pittsburgh at Cincinnati.
Friday — American League: Boston at New York, Chicago at Detroit, Cleveland at Kansas City, National League: Cincinnati at Philadelphia (night), San Francisco at St. Louis (night), Los Angeles at Chicago, Milwaukee at Pittsburgh.

Ramos Faces Harshman
President Eisenhower's golfing vacation leaves Vice President Nixon with the job of getting the season started at Washington. Pedro Ramos, the rubber armed Cuban, is expected to be the Senators' pitcher against Baltimore's Jack Harshman.

In the National League, the revamped Reds plan to send Bob Purkey against the Pirates Ronnie Kline.

Cleveland Edges San Francisco, 3-2
DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Pitcher Jim Bolger singled in the winning run to climax a Cleveland Indians ninth inning rally that stopped the San Francisco Giants, 3-2, in an exhibition game Tuesday.

Bolger's single drove in catcher Dick Brown, who had tied the game with a two-run double to provide a rousing finish for the only major league game to be played here this year.

A crowd of 3,633 watched the Giants score in the fourth on a run-producing single by Orlando Cepeda and in the seventh on a home run by Bob Schmidt. However, the revamped Indians jumped on bonus baby Mine McCormick for three runs in the top of the ninth. Brown's 40-foot drive off the right field fence scored Billy Martin and Woody Held to set up Bolger's heroics. Cleveland 000 000 003—3 8 1 San Fran 000 100 100—2 8 3

Ferrarese, Garcia (7), Grant (8), Bradowski (9) and Brown, Naragon (9); Antonelli, McCormick (4) and Schmidt, W-Grant, L-McCormick.
Home run — San Francisco, Schmidt.

Celtics Cop 3rd
ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — The Boston Celtics moved to within one victory of their second pro basketball championship in three years by whipping the Minneapolis Lakers 123-110 in the third game of the best of seven NBA championship series here Tuesday night.

Navy Tossers Win
ANNAPOLIS, (AP) — Jerry Hill, a junior right-hander, missed a shutout by one putout Tuesday as he pitched Navy to a 4-1 baseball victory over Bucknell.

Hill allowed only five hits and three walks while striking out nine. Bucknell's lone run came with two out in the ninth inning on a walk and singles by Steve Flannhaft and Jack Hackett.

Tigers Farm Pair
LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) — The Detroit Tigers farmed out pitcher Don Lee and outfielder-first baseman Earl Hersh Tuesday to get down to the 25-player limit for the opening of the 1959 season.

Lee, a 25-year-old right-hander who had a 14-7 record for Charleston of the American Association last season, and Hersh, drafted from the Milwaukee Braves' farm system after batting .237 with 98 RBI's at Wichita, were sent to Tigertown to await reassignment.

SO LONG AND FAREWELL—That old showman of baseball, Casey Stengel, bows before the crowd in Al Lang Field, St. Petersburg, Fla., as the Yankees depart from the field after their last training camp game of the 1959 season.

Lions Drop Baseball A Left-Hand Rifle
Deaf Mute New Ump Golf Balls In News
By C. V. BURNS

WEST VIRINGIA School for the Deaf of Romney is not fielding a baseball team this season, according to Eldon Shipman, principal.

The response to track and field has been so great there were not enough players available for baseball.

This is the first time in many years that the Lions, a member of the Potomac Valley Conference, will not be represented on the diamond.

William Swaim, who has served as assistant basketball and football coach, is directing the West Virginia School's thinclads who already have engaged in two meets and have seven more on their schedule.

The Lions oppose the Maryland School for the Deaf of Frederick in a dual meet Saturday at 1:30 in Romney.

SOMETHING NEW has been added by the Tri-State Umpires Association for the 1959 season. Charley Schultz, well known local deaf mute, who has been a popular figure in local baseball and softball circles in recent years, has become a member of the association and will make his debut as an arbiter.

Schultz is believed to be the first mute ever to become an umpire in Cumberland.

Among the other newcomers slated to receive their baptism of fire this season are John "Joker" Boyle, sparring partner of Howard "Farmer" Northcraft in the Times-News stereotyping department, and Dorcil Kline, Frostburg State College athlete, and one of Earl Nonnenmann's clerks at the Sports Shoppe.

THE FIRST left-hand rifle ever offered southpaw hunters has been introduced by the Savage Arms Corporation.

A combination varmint and big game rifle, it is made in .243, .270, .308 and .30/06 calibers. People who are naturally left-handed have, up to now, had just three choices: learning to shoot right-handed; using a pump, lever or auto-loading rifle; or doing a contortionist act by operating the standard bolt from the left shoulder. It is estimated that perhaps a million hunters face this problem now.

Like the mythical left-handed monkey wrench, left-handed hunting rifles never before have been made by any major arms producer. Some custom gunsmiths, however, have catered to the market by converting standard rifles to left-hand operation. Because the conversion is a difficult one, custom jobs are very costly and require the additional expense of re-stocking.

The new rifle by Savage has a small purse-bite, only a few bucks more than the standard right-hand model.

COACH Bill Maletzky's South High thinclands of Hagerstown, who are scheduled to engage Fort Hill and Martinsburg in a triangular meet here Friday, lost their opener to Frederick High School the past weekend by the score of 68-55.

DELVIN G. MILLER, of Meadow Lands, Pa., who is well known here and in nearby Pennsylvania, ranked fifth nationally among the leading money winning harness drivers in 1958, according to the Trotting and Pacing Guide. Del earned purses totaling $352,194. The leader was Bill Haughton, Glen Head, N. Y., with $816,659. Miller was fourth in 1957 with $391,185.

Miller won seven stake races ranging from $11,450 to $28,700 during the year. Adios Day, owned by Hugh Grant, Bradford, Pa., won four of the events and led the 2-year-old pacers for 1958 with $104,842. Del scored with Dottie's Pickmen.

Hockey League Referee Quits

Storey Under Fire In Saturday Game

BOSTON (UPI) — Veteran National Hockey League Referee Roy (Red) Storey resigned Tuesday, apparently under fire for his handling of Saturday night's Stanley Cup playoff game between Montreal and Chicago.

Storey announced the resignation, effective immediately, to Boston sportswriters. He had been due to work Tuesday night's seventh and deciding Stanley Cup game between the Bruins and the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Referee-in-chief Carl Voss, also here, said Storey offered no explanation for the resignation but added that "the whole thing arose from the game Saturday."

Storey was attacked on the ice by a Chicago fan after making a disputed call. A near-riot followed.

Montreal won the game 5-4, and the semifinal series, four games to two.

"I don't feel I'm mentally fit to work tonight's game between Boston and Toronto," Storey was quoted as telling sportswriters here. "It wouldn't be honest to either Bruins Coach Milt Schmidt or Maple Leafs Coach Punch Imlach. So I'm going home to my family in Montreal."

Black Hawk Coach Rudy Pilous charged Storey failed to call two penalties against Montreal late in the final period.

Patterson-London Title Fight Set For Indianapolis

NEW YORK (AP)—Despite rumors that another switch was under way, promoter Cecil Rhodes Jr. Tuesday night declared that Indianapolis will be the site of Floyd Patterson's May 1 defense of his world heavyweight boxing title against Brian London.

Rhodes said there are some differences over costs to the television network (NBC) which will beam the bout, but "that will be straightened out."

The bout was moved from Las Vegas in what Rhodes, a young steel executive making his debut as a promoter, termed a shift to escape rumors that gamblers were backing the fight.

Late Tuesday there was a report that the fight would be moved to Louisville and staged on the eve of the Kentucky Derby, May 2. Rhodes denied another switch after a day-long conference with network officials.

Cubs Beat Bosox In Eleventh, 8-7

VICTORIA, Tex. (UPI) — After Dick Gernert's homer in the 11th inning apparently had won for the Boston Red Sox, the Chicago Cubs stormed back in their half of the inning for two runs and an 8 to 7 victory Tuesday.

Pinch-hitter Al Dark whacked Leo Kiely's second pitch over the left field wall to tie the score. Then Bobby Thomson walked, took second on a single by Tony Taylor and moved around on long fly balls off the bats of Lee Walls and Johnny Goryl.

The Cubs smacked five homers. Earl Averill hit two and Walt Moryn and Dale Long one apiece but four Cubs errors forced the game into extra innings.

Chicago 010 301 100 02—8 12 4 Boston 102 200 100 01—7 13 0

Billy Klaus Suffers Back Injury In Fall

BALTIMORE (AP) — Infielder Billy Klaus, one of the newcomers expected to open the season for the Baltimore Orioles Thursday, has injured his back in a fall.

Klaus said he slipped on the bathroom floor in a Baltimore hotel Monday night and struck his back against a wash basin.

After he reported he had trouble stooping Tuesday, Klaus was sent to Union Memorial Hospital for x-rays and treatment.

An opening day lineup released Monday by Manager Paul Richards listed the former Boston Red Sox player as the third baseman for the Orioles.

Holmes To Succeed George Stirnweiss

NEW YORK (AP) — Tommy Holmes, one-time manager of the Boston Braves, was named director of the New York Journal-American sandlot baseball program Tuesday. He succeeds the late George Stirnweiss, who was killed in a train wreck last September.

Capon Bridge Plays At Berkeley Springs

Capon Bridge High School and Berkeley Springs High School are scheduled to meet in a Potomac Valley Conference baseball game p. m. at the home of Tonkaway Tribe, Improved Order of Redmen.

Purple Heart, Peck's Score

Lead In Playoffs In Shuffle League

The Purple Heart defeated Fisher & Robinette by three points and Peck's Cafe of Frostburg won by 19 points over the Cumberland Eagles as the final playoffs got under way last night in the American and National Divisions of the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League.

In the National match at the Purple Heart Club, the host team won by the score of 69-66 in the first three games of the six-game series which ends Thursday night at Fisher & Robinette. Bill Laurance paced the victors with 26 points and Fritz Palmer led F. & R. with 21 tallies.

Peck's beat the Eagles, 85-66, in the first three games of the six-game American loop series at Frostburg. The series winds up Thursday at the Eagles Home. Art Hanna of Peck's and Markwood of the Eagles led the scorers with 22 points each.

In the National League series for third place, Sweitzer's Restaurant won the first three games by the margin of 22 points, 74-52. They'll play again Thursday at Sweitzer's Restaurant. Shuey, Rendar and Coakley led Sweitzer's with 15 points each while Fogle topped Hann's with 18.

The first three games of the six-game set between the Cumberland K. of C. and Southern Bar for third place in the American loop is set for tonight at the latter place.

Tomorrow is the last day for members of the league to purchase tickets for their wives or girl friends for the banquet. Tickets may be obtained at Peck's Cafe or the Moose Home or from Art Gellner or Paul Sticher.

West Virginia Beats Falcons

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — Unbeaten West Virginia University ran its baseball winning streak to seven Tuesday with a comeback 9-7 victory over Fairmont State College.

The Mountaineers rallied for five runs in the eighth inning to top stubborn Fairmont.

Bucky Bolyard had three hits for WVU, all singles. Bruno Della-Mea and Goff had two hits each.

West Virginia scored its five runs in the eighth on six hits. Bolyard and Della-Mea batted in two runs each and Charles Tupes one.

Larry Ott, Ed Helmsinski and Rick Harris collected two safeties each. Harris knocked in two runs.

The line score:
Fairmont 020 004 001—7 8 1
WVU 100 101 15x—9 13 0
Gouzd, Puskas (8) and Deligatti, West, Goff (6) and Connolly, Ewing (7).

Leafs Cop Series

BOSTON (UPI) — Rookie Gerry Ehman finished off a pass from Frank Mahovich with two and one-half minutes left Tuesday night to give the Toronto Maple Leafs a 3-2 win over the Boston Bruins in the semi-final Stanley Cup playoffs, four games to three.

The playoff goal by the 26-year-old Ehman earned the amazing Maple Leafs a shot at the Stanley Cup in the final best-of-seven series which opens at Montreal Thursday night.

Braves Win, 5-4

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — The Milwaukee Braves came from behind to beat the Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-4, Tuesday night before 12,203 fans, one of the largest for a major league exhibition game this spring.

Henry Aaron's two-run single with the bases loaded in the ninth inning climaxed an uphill fight as opening day, showed presence of the Braves ran their winning streak to four games. The Dodgers jumped off to a four-run lead against Bob Buhl in the first, but races redistributed since Gall-Braves fought back for three runs in the seventh to set the stage Monday for Aaron's decisive blow.

Motorcycle Races And Hill Climb Are Scheduled In July

The Bi-State Sprockets Motorcycle Club in conjunction with the Western Pennsylvania Harley Davidson Motorcycle Dealers Association will sponsor motorcycle races at the Potomac Valley Speedway, Fort Ashby, and a motorcycle hill climbing program on the Kline Farm near the Cumberland Municipal Airport in July.

It was announced last night by Jim Raupach, chairman of the committee on arrangements. A program of nine light-weight races is billed for the Fort Ashby one-third mile oval on the night of Saturday, July 11, at 8 o'clock.

The hill climb, featuring two Class A and two Class B events, is billed for the afternoon of Sunday, July 12.

Simmons To Undergo Operation On Arm

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Southpaw Curt Simmons of the Philadelphia Phillies will be operated on Friday for the removal of a bone chip from the elbow of his pitching arm, the club said Tuesday.

The operation leaves the Phils without a first line left-handed pitcher. It was estimated that even with a successful operation and a good recovery Simmons would be lost for at least half a year.

Pen-Mar To Meet

A meeting of officers and managers of teams in the Pen-Mar Little League will be held Thursday at 7:30 p. m. at the Wilson Hardware Company building, North Mechanic Street. A schedule will be drafted for the 1959 season.

Four Suspended

AKRON, O. (UPI)—Ascot Park stewards Tuesday notified the State Racing Commission of the suspension of trainer E. G. Gallrein, his horses and grooms Ernest Contress, Vant Logan and Clifford Mills because a test on Josie, which won the second race in the opening day, showed presence of a drug like procaine.

The second race finish was changed and purses in two other against Bob Buhl in the first, but races redistributed since Gall-Braves fought back for three runs in the seventh to set the stage Monday for Aaron's decisive blow.

TWO TRIPLES SCORED
LINCOLN, R.I. (UPI) — Phil Grimm and Vinnie Spinale each scored a triple Tuesday at Lincoln Downs. Grimm booted home Wanted ($4.00) in the third, Top Dresser ($5.20) in the fifth and Miss Royal ($3.60) in the featured seventh. Spinale's victories were recorded aboard Tartos in the sixth, Dynameter ($7.20) in the eighth and Mountain Holly ($16.00) in the ninth.

Doc Blanchard And Glenn Davis Are Nominated

Ten Will Be Named To The Hall Of Fame

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (AP) —Felix (Doc) Blanchard and his Army sidekick, Glenn Davis; Christy Mathewson, Johnny Lutzack, Jim Crowley and Frank Leahy are among the 1959 nominees for the Football Hall of Fame.

A 12-member honors court was considering 50 new candidates of former football stars and coaches today. Only 10 will be elected. They will join the 163 immortals already enshrined at Rutgers University.

The list of eligibles includes 40 former players from 34 schools and 10 former coaches associated with 26 colleges. The nominees cover a wide range geographically and a wide span of time. All sections of the country are represented. The nominees played between the years 1894 and 1949.

Only one who played his last collegiate game 10 years prior to his nomination is eligible.

Local Methodist Quint Is Second In Cage Tourney

Centre Street Methodist captured second place in the Methodist Basketball Congress held at American University, Washington, D. C., the past weekend by nosing out Hyattsville by the score of 31-29.

Centre Street defeated Congress Heights, of Washington, in the opening round, 29-20, and lost a second round game to Marvin Methodist, of Silver Spring, 59-9. There were four teams in the two-day tourney.

Stock Car Drivers Meet Here Friday

Drivers and owners interested in stock car racing at the Potomac Valley Speedway at Fort Ashby are invited to meet Friday at 7:30 p. m. at Jim Raupach's Motorcycle Shop, 1509 River Avenue. The meeting is being held for the purpose of formulating plans for racing this year at the speedway.

Billy Toomey Harbors Perfect Game As Moorefield Wins

Jackets Top Warriors In 3-0 Contest

Junior Southpaw Faces 21; Keyser Tops Ft. Ashby, 4-1

Billy Toomey, Moorefield High School southpaw, pitched a perfect game yesterday as Coach George Hott's Yellowjackets defeated Wardsville High School's Warriors in a Potomac Valley Conference game at Moorefield by the score of 3-0.

Toomey, 140-pound junior, faced only 21 batters in the seven-inning contest, failed to yield a hit or run, did not issue any bases on balls and struck out three batters. In fact, Wardsville failed to get a single runner on base. The Jackets played errorless ball all day.

Evans Wins Series

By winning yesterday's game Moorefield avenged a 6-4 defeat suffered at the hands of the Warriors on April 1.

Virgil Heishman, who pitched the Warriors to victory in the series opener, was the loser in yesterday's game although he turned in a two-hit performance. Keller's double and Fisher's single were the only hits credited to Moorefield. The Jackets scored one run in the first inning and two in the fourth.

Moorefield plays at Franklin Friday while Wardsville visits Capon Bridge.

Keyser Wins P.V.C.

In another P.V.C. game staged yesterday, Dave Wilson tossed a two-hitter as Keyser High School launched its campaign with a 4-1 decision over Fort Ashby High School at Keyser.

Wilson gave up a double to Bill Price and a single to Arlie Dolly, mowed down nine via the strike-out route and failed to issue a pass in going the route for Coach Fred "Tack" Clark's Golden Tornado.

Harold Hersberger, Fort Ashby twirler, yielded five safeties, two of which were credited to Gary Keedy, fanned seven and issued three bases on balls. Keedy batted in two of Keyser's four runs. Three errors paved the way for Fort Ashby's only tally in the sixth frame.

Keyser plays host to Fort Hill High School in an exhibition game today at 4 p. m. in Keyser. Romney hosts K. P. in a P.V.C. contest Friday afternoon.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — "The comedy man will keep in New York is glement that made 'No Time for Sol Siegel, who flew East Sergeants' such a hit," Mervyn right after the Academy Awards Leroy said, "is what prompted to talk with her and with Joe me to buy 'Wake Me When It's Vogel, head of MGM."

At the time he announced he was going to produce "Thank a Fool," he said he wanted Ingrid and now Sol will talk with her and cinch the deal. I don't know why she wouldn't make it—Sol makes very good pictures.

Debbie Reynolds, her mother, and the children paid me a visit. Todd looks exactly like Eddie Fisher. He is a smiling, happy baby and Carrie Frances is a darling and looks like her lovely mother.

Debbie told me she went to the caves in Granada where the Gypsies tell fortunes. One of them told Glenn Ford he would be delayed in sailing—and he was. They told Debbie she would have an accident and that night, she fainted. One thing they told her which, of course, didn't come true was to beware—in Granada she was going to have a baby! "I kept telling them 'No, I'm not married,'" laughed Debbie—but the gypsies insisted!

Debbie brought home some paintings but had very little time for shopping for anything else except the children. She told me she definitely is going to accept "The Pleasure of His Company" for Perlberg-Seaton.

Kathryn Grant had just arrived in Michigan when she telephoned me. She said she was afraid the news of her expected baby would get out and because she had denied my original story printed Jan. 20, and she wanted me to know first. "After all," she said, "you had the first story about Harry, Jr."

I asked if Bing was pleased and she said he was very happy. "I want more than one child," she told me. "I will not give up my career, only until after the baby is born, then I expect to make other pictures. I like acting and Bing wants me to continue."

Princess Pacelli, niece of the late Pope Pius XII, who does such an outstanding job for Boys Town of Italy, was guest of honor at a tea given for her by Mrs. Bob Hope. The princess's daughter is traveling with her. She feels Boys Town is a potent weapon against Communism because the homeless boys are trained in the right way of thinking and are given love and care.

Irene Dunne dashed in and out—she had to rehearse for the Academy Awards. Mrs. Sven Lohr, Nancy Sinatra, Mrs. Henry Salvatori, Mrs. Josie Wayne, Mrs. Norris Poulson, Mrs. George Skouras and Mrs. John Sharp were among those who greeted the princess. Mrs. Sharp told me she had just heard from Maureen O'Sullivan who asked her to find a house for them, the Farrows are moving back in July.

Answer Alarm

Central Fire Company answered an alarm at 5:28 p. m. Monday, going to 728 North Mechanic Street, where a stove pipe reportedly came loose and the house filled with smoke. Firemen reported no damage.

Knew Where To Look

BALTIMORE (AP) — Police said the knife-wielding bandit who robbed a cut-rate store of $1,174 knew just what he was looking for.

Clerk Louis Braxton said she was alone in the store last night when the short Negro, about 25, walked in and pulled a large pen knife from his pocket. He went to a small cabinet under the cash register and took out some paper money, then emptied the register.

Ford, Chrysler Stocks Dominate Mixed Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Auto market and it was attributed in stocks—Ford and Chrysler in particular—to the growingly lower, less active stock market.

Ford, with production lines going 510,000 shares from 3-1/2 full blast, rose 2 1/2 points to 34 1/2. There was backtracking in 6 1/2, approaching the original many of the recent strong fear-offering price of 6 1/2, a level not there where profit-taking was in touched since the issue went on line. Vick Chemical, up 18 points the exchange in 1956.

Chrysler ran up a point to 64 1/2, cholesterol drug, fell 8 1/2. Bristol American Motors, fractionally Myers lost 3 1/2. American Home higher, followed Ford in the ac-Powers 4 points. There were five list and General Motors, off losses of 2 points or more in Fire-a bit on the day, was the third stone Tire. Caterpillar Tractor, most active.

General Time, Minnesota Mining.

Hesitation was evident in the American Telephone lost 1 1/2.

Grand Jury Urges New County Jail

Present Building Unfit For Humans, Report Contents

The April grand jury in Allegany County Circuit Court matched the speed of its January counterpart yesterday by returning on its second day of session a five-page report which recommended that the county commissioners adopt a long-range plan for the construction of a new county jail.

The grand jury is of the opinion that the present facilities in the County Jail are "not suitable or acceptable for human incarceration."

The grand jurors felt that repair to the present structure is a continuing financial burden which can only be eliminated by the construction of a modern and up-to-date unit.

Then, the report requests the county commissioners to take the necessary action to determine the cost and method of financing such a program and report progress to the October grand jury. Sheriff Commended

Four other specific recommendations in the report concern the jail or the sheriff's office. One commends Sheriff Paul C. Haberlein for the excellent manner in which he is conducting the jail under the "severe handicap of outmoded and inadequate quarters and equipment."

Harry J. Barton, Pinto dairyman, was foreman of the grand jury of 19 men and only four women. The clerks were Walter C. Close and Lynn C. Lashley.

The April grand jury examined 23 witnesses but returned only one indictment.

This report concurs in the recommendation of the January grand jury that the solitary confinement quarters in the County Jail be converted into a "drunk tank" and further recommends that a study be made to determine the project cost.

Another recommendation is that consideration be given to employing one clerk in the sheriff's office to handle all clerical duties and records essential to the efficient operation of the department. The April grand jury also concurs with its January predecessor regarding the installation of radio equipment in vehicles assigned to the sheriff's office.

Office Integration
Another major recommendation is that the county commissioners consider a long range program for the integration of all county offices including the Health Department, Welfare Board and other county agencies including housing facilities, storage and convenience to the public.

"This body is of the opinion that many services are presently being administered without any definite plan and that greater efficiency of operation and better service can be accomplished by a program designed to streamline and coordinate the various agencies of the county," the report adds.

The report observes that in accordance with previous grand jury recommendations, the sheriff's office, the liquor board and the police departments of the various municipalities have maintained and submitted for examination by the grand jury written reports of investigations made. The grand jury is of the opinion

One Indicted By Grand Jury

Andrew Louis Robinson, 48, of 118 South Lee Street, was the only person indicted by the April grand jury in Allegany County Circuit Court, which wound up its activities on its second day yesterday afternoon.

Robinson was named in a three-count burglary indictment which charged that he broke into Geatz's Restaurant, 206 Paca Street, on January 15, and stole $129.56 worth of whisky and a $50 16-gauge shotgun.

At the time of his arrest by city police on January 26, Robinson confessed that he has spent 31 of his 48 years in confinement in various penal institutions in Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Robinson was accused of having stolen 11 fifths, 10 quarts and 16 half pints of whisky along with the shotgun from the Geatz establishment. He told police that he hid the whisky under the Washington Street bridge and sold the gun for $5.

The local man has remained in the County Jail since January 27.

Land Purchased For New Army Reserve Center

Sen. Beall Says Work Will Begin Shortly

United States Senator J. Glenn Beall announced yesterday that the federal government has purchased a tract of land on which to establish a U. S. Army Reserve Center for Cumberland.

The site of the new center, Senator Beall said, is at Amcelle and fronts 400 feet on the east side of McMullen Highway.

The center will be built on the 6.11-acre site near the Cresap town branch of the Second National Bank. The land was secured from the Celanese Corporation of America and adjoins its Amcelle plant.

Senator Beall said work on the center is expected to begin shortly.

The Armed Services Committee of the House of Representatives last month approved a $238,000 appropriation for the Army Reserve training center.

Informed sources said plans call for the construction of a one-unit training center designed for 200 men. This would meet the current needs of the Cumberland area Army Reserve units.

Construction costs have been estimated at about $250,000. The design is reported to be more in the line of a training center than an armory and the building is expected to consist chiefly of classrooms.

31 Register For Voting

During March this year, 31 new eligible voters of Allegany County, 21 Democrats and 10 Republicans, registered at the office of the Board of Election Supervisors in the basement of the Court House.

Irvin J. Neat, chief clerk, said the overall county registration figure as of April 1 was 37,442 including 21,158 Republicans, 16,014 Democrats, 258 who declined to give their party affiliation, 10 Socialists and two other parties.

During the month of March, 24 names of deceased voters were stricken from the registration books. There were 12 Democrats and a similar number of Republicans who died during that period.

Three Republicans requested their names be removed from the registration books. Mr. Neat pointed out that five Republicans changed their party affiliation to Democrat while three Democrats switched to Republicans.

Sixteen persons transferred from one district or precinct to another, said Mr. Neat.

The election board office at the Court House is open for registration from 9 a. m. until noon and from 1 until 4 p. m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a. m. until noon on Saturdays.

Local UCT Council Plans Memorial Service Sunday

The local council of the United Commercial Travelers of America will observe its annual memorial day with services here Sunday.

This day is observed by the UTC on the Sunday nearest the anniversary of the death of Charles Benton Flagg, first supreme secretary of the order, who died April 9, 1901.

The Cumberland council will mark the memorial day by attending worship services at 11 a. m. at the Salvation Citadel on North Mechanic Street. Members of the UCT will meet at the IOOF Hall on South Mechanic Street at 10:40 p. m. to go to the Salvation Army headquarters to gether.

C&O Canal Mosquito Menace May Be Abated

Mayor J. Edwin Keech said yesterday something may be worked out between the City of Cumberland and the National Park Service this spring on the mosquito problem in C&O Canal structures here.

While on an inspection tour yesterday, Mayor Keech and City Engineer C. R. Nuzum conferred with Edwin M. Dale, superintendent of the C & O Canal National Historical Parkway project.

Mosquito control in the canal, Mayor Keech told Mr. Dale, is a serious problem to residents of Roberts, Potomac, Mary, Humbird, Elder and Offutt streets, some of whom live within 75 feet of the abandoned canal.

Further Study Planned
The National Parks official told Mayor Keech he will be here early in May and will then discuss the problem further with the city.

The decision, it was pointed out, will be whether mosquito control in the canal is to be handled by the Park Service, the City of Cumberland or as a joint venture.

Mr. Dale was most cooperative, Mayor Keech said in promising that something will be worked out before the mosquito season begins.

Much of the canal inside the city limits is choked with grass. Some sections are dry, but in others from an inch to several feet of stagnant water remains, forming breeding grounds for mosquitos.

Serious Problem
The mosquito problem in the canal bed has been serious for a number of years. It was alleviated slightly during the flood control work when the old canal basin, opposite the Community Ball Park, was filled in.

The city officials spotted the Park Service official who was with a party making a detailed study of the canal. They decided it was an opportune time to bring up the mosquito problem.

Later, the city officials drove to the Cumberland Municipal Airport, to inspect work on a new maintenance building. The work has progressed but is held up now pending the arrival of trusses for the roof.

118 Give Blood At Frostburg

The Red Cross bloodmobile collected a total of 118 pints of blood at the American Legion Home in Frostburg yesterday. Quota was 120.

Frostburg Branch, Red Cross, had scheduled 164 potential donors. Appointments were kept by 92. Ten persons cancelled appointments but 36 volunteers walked in. Sixty-two people did not keep their appointments nor did they notify the blood bank.

Of the total reporting, 10 were rejected for colds or other disabilities. Thirteen persons were first-time donors.

Physicians on duty included Dr. John Davis, Dr. Hilda Walters, Dr. H. C. Diehl, Dr. Frank Harrah and Dr. Martin Rothstein.

1959 Assembly Set Record For Motor Laws

Point System And Drunkometer Pass

By MARTY SUTPHIN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The 1959 General Assembly passed more laws affecting a and protecting Maryland motorists than any other Legislature in recent years.

That's the opinion of Del. Edgar P. Silver (D-Balto 5th), chairman of a legislative committee on motor vehicle laws.

Four of the committee's 10 proposals were enacted into law. Included in these are far-reaching acts setting up a point system for license revocation and legalizing chemical tests for intoxication.

Both of these bills had strong backing from Gov. Tawes. Silver gave the governor much credit Tuesday for their enactment, but he was quick to point out that a lot of public education and four years of legislative prodding also helped pave the way.

Psychological Benefits
Silver said the "psychological effect" of the point system and drunk test laws alone should help reduce "one of the highest accident death tolls in the East."

He said the motor vehicle legislation was "among the most important enacted."

The point system law, which won't go into effect until Dec. 31, 1960, levies points for certain violations and provides that pleasure drivers accumulating 12 or more points in a two-year period may lose their licenses. The delay in putting it into effect is to give the Motor Vehicles Department enough time to set up machinery for administering the new law.

The other major safety law, going into effect June 1, provides that police may use chemical tests with a driver's consent to detect drunken driving. The tests would be evidence in court and lessen the chance of a guilty driver going free.

Some Failed
A third bill pushed by the governor would have made the eye-sight test stricter for license applicants. This one passed the House but died in the Senate.

Other Silver committee recommendations which bore fruit called for more State Police and a requirement that pedestrians obey all traffic control signals.

Forty additional police were provided for in the new budget, and a pedestrian regulation bill was enacted three weeks after its introduction.

One committee suggestion which didn't reach bill form would have given magistrates the power to suspend licenses.

But the lawmakers officially urged the governor to call a conference of magistrates, and there are signs Tawes will urge the assembled judges to crack down harder on violators.

What's next? Silver said he expects to spend a lot of time this summer checking the operation of point system laws in the District of Columbia and New Jersey.

Silver indicated emphasis next session may be on required driver training in all high schools.

They'll Be Back
Other committee recommendations which failed this year will probably be back. They include bills to replace "gross negligence" with "negligent homicide" in the auto manslaughter law, to require annual inspection of cars and to provide for public hearings before increasing auto insurance rates.

Other traffic safety bills, not among Silver's major recommendations, were enacted into law this session.

They require halted motor vehicles to have lights visible from 300 feet in front and behind, allow the State Roads Commission to set minimum speed limits and increase the penalty for failure to obey the school bus stop law.

Another motor vehicle law revision, not directly affecting traffic safety, relaxes the state's financial responsibility law. It provides that drivers affected must comply for only three years, instead of for life.

Births
Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nedobick, Milwaukee, Wis., announce the birth of a daughter there Saturday. The mother is the former Miss Mary Elizabeth Fields, daughter of Mrs. Bernadette Fields, 412 Cumberland Street.

Memorial Hospital
Mr. and Mrs. Jack A. Piper, Flintstone, a son Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Schwinabart, Elk Garden, W. Va., a daughter Monday.

Textile Union Approves New Amcelle Pact

4th Vacation Week In 8 1/2-Cent Package

Over half of the workers at the Amcelle plant will get a fourth week of vacation under a two-year contract ratified last night by Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, AFL-CIO.

John G. Thomas, president of the Celanese local, said about 1,300 of the some 2,000 hourly-paid workers at the plant will be eligible for the fourth week of vacation provided after 25 years of service.

The fringe issue was included in an 8 1/2-cent contract package which includes a five-cent across-the-board wage increase.

Get 3 Cent Boost
The wage boost will bring average wages at the Amcelle plant to about $2.04 an hour, the union said.

Workers will also get an extra paid holiday, Veterans Day, in the new contract for a total of seven paid holidays.

The pact also includes changes in the seniority clause which will help employees with long service to retain their recall rights to the plant.

Mr. Thomas said the two-year contract can be reopened for wage negotiations at the end of the first year.

The contract package was approved last night at an overflow meeting in the union hall. Mr. Thomas said. Final action will be taken at a ratification meeting scheduled today at 10:30 a. m. in the union hall.

Ralph Cline, Washington, TWUA representative, headed the union negotiating team which included top officers and all department chairmen.

Is Parent Plant
The Amcelle plant is the parent plant of the Celanese Corporation of America.

The corporation began operations at the Amcelle plant here on Christmas in 1924 and has been a major producer of acetate yarn for more than a quarter of a century.

It has also served as a training center for the firm and has furnished many of the top staffers and skilled workers at Celanese plants throughout the world.

Ralph Cover Will Build 12 Houses

Ralph G. Cover of Bowling Green, one of the primary home builders in LaVale, yesterday obtained permits from the Allegany County assessor's department to build 12 new houses costing a total of $226,500 in the Coverwood development of Election District 29 near the intersection of Winchester and Vocke roads.

The estimated cost of four of the brick dwellings was $20,000 each, seven bore an $18,500 price tag and the other is estimated to cost $17,000.

Five of the new homes will be built on Park Drive, three on Lindaway, two on Roverway, one on Beverlyway and one at the intersection of Richardway and Lindaway. The $20,000 houses are approximately 32 by 62 feet in size, while most of the less expensive buildings are 32 by 48 feet in size.

Two other permits for new dwellings were issued yesterday. Lewis T. Hause, 320 Queen Street, McCoolle, obtained a permit for $3,000 stone dwelling to be constructed along McMullen Highway in McCoolle, situated in Election District 31. Clarence C. Myers, RFD 5, Winchester Road, obtained a permit for a $2,500 frame dwelling on Grabenstein Road off Winchester Road in Election District 29.

Victim Of Auto Crash "Critical"
James H. McKenzie, 86, of Frostburg, who was struck by an auto on Monday, remains on the "critical" list at Miners Hospital in Frostburg.

Police said the man was struck while crossing U.S. Route 40 about a mile west of Frostburg. The car was driven by Francis H. Lurz of Baltimore.

Area Woman's Mother Gets West Virginia Honor
Mrs. Marguerite Johnson White of Bridgeport, Harrison County, W. Va., mother of Mrs. Elizabeth Wolverson, wife of Dr. James Wolverson of Piedmont, has been selected West Virginia Mother of the Year for 1959.

The selection was announced at Clarksburg yesterday by Mrs. O. L. Stewart, chairman of the State Mothers Committee.

Mrs. White is one of several nominees submitted by organizations and individuals. She is 63, Ohio, where she is music director of Cadiz High School; Thomas B. White Jr., Zanesville, Ohio, is an equipment company sales representative; James, father of two sons, is with Hanna Coal Co. at Cadiz.

David is in his second year of medical school at West Virginia University while Richard lives at Clarksburg while working part-time for a grocery firm and attending Fairmont State College.

Minor Blazes Keep Firemen Busy In Area
Local firemen and volunteers in the immediate area answered a number of calls last night. Firemen from East Side station were called to Constitution Park at 5:36 p. m. to extinguish a grass fire.

Volunteers of Ridgeley were called to Potomac Street after a transformer on a utility pole ignited about 9:15 p. m. The Potomac Edison Company was notified by the firemen.

Baltimore Pike volunteers had two grass fire calls last night. About 9 p. m. they quenched a fire on Pleasant Valley Road and about three hours earlier checked a grass fire on Willowbrook Road.

LaVale was called out at 6:45 p. m. to check a fire on Gramlich Road.

Bedford Road Volunteer Fire Company extinguished a grass fire which burned about an acre of ground last evening on the property of William Donahue, Morningside Drive.

The company answered the 6 p. m. alarm with one truck and 14 men. Firemen said Mr. Donahue was burning trash and the blaze got out of control.

Three Guilty In Theft Of Auto Parts

Youths Fined $25; Terms Suspended

Three local youths were fined and given suspended jail terms at a hearing yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court on petty larceny charges in a series of thefts of accessories from parked automobiles.

The youths, Lester A. Blackburn, 20, and Larry R. Wolfe, 19, both of Piedmont Avenue extended, and Roger A. Hartman, 19, of 310 North Waverly Terrace, were found guilty at a hearing conducted by Magistrate Morris Baron.

Magistrate Baron gave each youth a 30-day sentence in the County Jail and fined each one $25. The jail terms were suspended, but Magistrate Baron placed the youths on probation for one year.

The youths were arrested Sunday by Officers Clarence Valentine, Harold Gibson and William Norris, who also recovered part of the accessories in the trunk of the car in which the youths were riding when picked up on Baltimore Street.

The case cleared up a number of complaints City Police had received during the last month in which mirrors and tail lights were reported stolen from parked cars.

The Blackburn youth also was found guilty of a motor vehicle violation and was given 15 days in jail in default of a $10 fine. Blackburn is from Junction, W. Va., but has been residing here with the Wolfe youth. Magistrate Baron fined Blackburn for operating a vehicle with an out-of-state registration after establishing a permanent residence in Maryland.

Police Search For Escapee

A 32-year-old Cumberland man who was captured March 10 here after attempting to batter down the door of a Frederick Street residence, has once again fled from Springfield State Hospital, police reported last night.

John Joseph Moravia, Route 1, escaped from the hospital some time Saturday evening. He is reported to be wearing a brown shirt and grey trousers. He has brown hair and brown eyes.

He also fled from the hospital last February 22 and was caught by city police early Tuesday morning, March 10. Police said the man attempted to break down the door of the residence of Ronald L. Sheally, 819 Frederick Street, identified as a brother-in-law of the missing man.

Police captured Moravia near Bedford Street after a chase through alleyways and back yards at the time.

City To Confer With SRC On Lighting Costs

Annual Expense May Approach $100,000

Officials of the City of Cumberland yesterday made plans to confer with State Roads Commission officials after hearing an estimate it might cost as much as $100,000 a year to light the Cumberland Thruway.

The cost estimate was given yesterday afternoon as representatives of the Mayor and Council met with its Thruway Lighting Advisory Committee and Potomac Edison Company officials.

A city spokesman said he knows of no other instance where a municipality pays for lighting a state facility.

The contract with the SRC, he explained, merely says the city is responsible for lighting. Details are not specified.

Will Study Data
The advisory committee composed of William E. Toms, Frank E. Hines and Jack G. Lucas, experts from local industrial plants, reported it will study figures given by the PE officials and report back to the Mayor and Council.

The PE delegation included Garland L. Johnston, district manager, Oscar H. Lashley Jr. and L. C. Cessna.

Among the details to be considered by the technical committee are whether the Thruway is to be lighted by mercury vapor, fluorescent or incandescent lamps, and whether steel, aluminum or wooden poles are to be used.

The committee asked the PE to furnish additional breakdowns on costs so it could estimate the cost if the city purchased and installed fixtures as opposed to annual charges made by the utility for erection, maintenance and current for the lighting.

It was stated that under the proposed standard rate charged by the utility for steel poles and mercury lights of 20,000 lumens, the annual cost of lighting the Thruway might amount to as much as $100,000 a year.

This is approximately $37,000 more than the cost estimate reached in previous discussions.

Need Final Plans
Officials pointed out it is difficult to determine the cost of lighting the Thruway, as no final plans are available for the entire project.

The previous figure of $63,000 was based on the fact that plans are final for the section from Lindernville to Maryland Avenue. Lighting plans have been prepared by the Potomac Edison Company for this section.

The annual cost of lighting this section, which comprises about a third of the east-west segment, was estimated at about $21,000 a year on a rental basis, using steel poles and mercury lights.

The possibility of using aluminum poles was discussed along with the advisability of the city's paying the original installation costs and then paying the PE for current used, plus any maintenance which could not be performed by city workers.

It was brought out that the city, within a 20-year period, would be paying about three times the $200,000 cost of the installation under the rental proposal.

The industrial lighting experts have been asked to help the city find the most efficient and economical means of lighting the Thruway.

Under all estimates studied so far, it will cost several times as much to light the Thruway as all the rest of the city.

The current budget includes $39,000 for lighting all streets in the city with incandescent lamps.

Northeast PTA Honors Faculty

The faculty members of Northeast Elementary School were guests of honor last night at a dinner arranged for them by the Parent Teacher Association at the school.

Each teacher was presented with a gift and Principal and Mrs. Raymond Skidmore were presented with a special gift for their new home on Bedford Road. The Skidmores moved here a few days ago from Frostburg.

Mrs. David Watson was chairman of arrangements for the dinner which was prepared and served by the home room mothers. Entertainment was arranged by Joseph Siebert, president.</
